RICHVALE MINOR HOCKEY RESULTS

NOVICE
Richmond Sports defeated Baker's Sales & Service 2-0 in the first game March 3, with Shaune Cooke earning the shutout. Terry Bunker scored both counters for the Sports with Craig Fenn helping on one.

Thorncrest Motel defeated Carlisle Real Estate 2-1 in the second game of the day. Thorncrest's goals were netted by Tod Dungey and Gordon Gertley and Carlisle's by Gordy Peters from Mark Butler.

ATOM
Richvale's opening game of a best two out of three series with Richmond Hill Tuesday evening ended in a 3-3 tie after 10 minutes of stop time overtime. John March with two goals and Alan Evelyn with one were the Royals' scorers with assists earned by Mike Hegenaue (2) and Greg Meeke.

Wednesday the Royals were defeated by a 2-1 score by Richmond Hill in the second game of this playoff series. John Adams scored Royals' lone goal on a solo effort. Paul Gullo played a standout game in goal to keep the score close.

Friday evening Richvale defeated Richmond Hill 3-2 in overtime. Dave Carmichael opened the scoring for Royals assisted by Adams and Meeke. Scott Spires scored Richvale's second goal unassisted. The winning goal, scored in overtime, was fired by Carmichael with assists going to Mason and Evelyn.

Richvale lost a 1-0 decision to Richmond Hill Saturday evening which eliminated them from this playoff series. On a whole the series was well played as the teams were very evenly matched and only one goal separated them in four games. Paul Gullo deserved special mention as he turned in another outstanding game in goal.

INTERLOCKING
Oak Ridges defeated Cifelli Carpenters 2-1 February 28 for the first time this season. Scoring for Richvale was Jed Bartlett who was set up by Wayne Stiver.

Monday Oak Ridges repeated their success, but this time the score was 4-1. Brian Reilly was helped by Stiver on the only Richvale counter of this game.

Winners from the Scout troop were: 1st Andrew Peterson, stamp collection; 2nd Brian Hobbs, feeding station and Willie Qua, pies.

Congratulations to all these boys in South Richmond Hill for their good work and to the many adults who through their hard work and co-operation made this show the huge success that it was.

Much enthusiasm and keen participation was also shown by the newly organized 5th Richmond Hill Outpost formed by patients from the Villa Hospital of Bathurst Street. The Cub Pack, Scout Troop and Venturer Company won a total of 21 ribbons.

In commemoration of the joint birthdays of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, the Richvale Brownies, Guides and Rangers with the Langstaff Cubs and Scouts took part in the annual church parade at Emmanuel Anglican Church, MacKay Drive. They were welcomed to the service by Rev. John Coneybeare.

1st Richvale Rangers February 23, lent their services to the Canadian Heart Fund, Ontario Division. This is their annual service project to the community and the girls braved very cold weather to canvas and cover the area allotted to them in Thornhill. Their efforts brought in more than $150 for the Heart Fund.

As part of her pre-enrolment, Ranger Jackie Collins is planning a pot luck supper for April 3, to which the older Guides will be invited to share with their sister Rangers in good food and fun.

Plans are being made to attend the annual Olympic Camp May 10, 11 and 12. This is a co-ed camp sponsored by the 3rd Newtonbrook development in the ravine between Maryvale and Birch and the subdividing of lots in this area, contrary to Vaughan bylaws.

Also in co-operation with the Northholl Ratepayers' Group, his association hopes to prevent the widening of Denham Drive as an arterial road. Residents picked that location in which to live in order to get away from traffic. Col. Everett, president of Northholl says their immediate concern is the widening of Westwood Lane, designated a collector road.

In the past hefty battles have been fought with the municipal board said President Derek Evelyn of North Richvale Ratepayers Association, which has long been in existence, but dormant in the 60's until BAIF was being planned. In 1972 they set up a committee to discuss roads. Poor attendance at meetings hampered action but in 1973 citizens rallied and presented a brief to council regarding sewers.

Wayne Smith represented the Lions as their public relations officer. Mrs. Marylo Graham spoke briefly of the aims and purposes of the citizens' advisory group, describing it as an "umbrella" that is a vehicle of communication between the citizens and council. She hoped all individuals or organizations within this area needing help or advice would use it. Local representative is Mrs. Shirley Stanley of Welck Road at 884-4127.

Mrs. Graham referred to the possible fast rate of growth in any one particular area, and the necessity for presenting or diverting such growth until the social services and schools could cope with the population explosion. Our awareness and actions are both necessary.

Mr. McMullan suggested the present task force may have fulfilled its purpose in the social implications of BAIF and integration of north and south Richvale with the new citizens. Now the time has come for citizens groups to take over.

However Mrs. Gradzinski said there is a need for an overall force to link these groups together and asked the task force remain as the overseer.

A series of public lectures is being held for all interested in citizens' environment. "Patterns and Problems" will be the first of such April 11 at 7:45 pm at the University of Toronto Medical Science Urban Growth Building.

President Allan Evelyn Roselawn Senior Public, says his is a loose knit association and notes that people are interested only in things that affect them. The influx of students from BAIF has been less than expected from grades 6 to 8. He stressed there was need for more communication with school boards, since there was negligence on the part of trustees who failed to provide outdoor recreation facilities for students who were deprived for a whole year when the bulldozers took over the play area at Roselawn for the new development of BAIF.

Dr. Stefan Zukotynski, president of the West Scott Ratepayers, described the two issues that prompted his association to reactivate after 10 years — the proposed

Watch out for unethical home food plan operators

Two months ago I clipped and mailed a coupon indicating I wanted more information on a home food plan. The ad said that the groceries received would be cheaper than the same goods at the three leading chain stores. With the escalating food costs I figured I could beat the price increases by buying in bulk. Yesterday morning, a salesman called. To make a long story short, I signed a six-month food plan contract for $994. This included a $694 handling and overhead charge plus meat and groceries worth $300 at a cost of $165.66 a month. The contract didn't include fresh foods - eggs, milk, butter and vegetables.

Being the mother of three teenage boys and on a small salary, I decided I couldn't afford this amount, so I extended the payment time and signed an eight-month contract in my home yesterday afternoon, at $124.24 a month for the same goods.

What I didn't realize is that this only gives me $9 worth of groceries a week. The rest of the cost is the handling charge. The food delivered isn't nearly enough to feed my family. I realize I've been taken, but is there anything I can do to get my money back?

You're in luck. Under Ontario's Consumer Protection Act, you have a two-day "cooling off" period in which you can cancel the contract if you feel you're not getting a good deal or you can't afford the goods.

To break the contract, you must do so by registered mail or by letter personally delivered within two working days after the contract has been signed. A telephone call is no good. This "cooling off" period applies only when the contract involves more than $50 and has been negotiated and signed at a place other than the seller's regular place of business.

The food plan company has every right to charge whatever it wants for the goods. It is your job to shop around before signing any document to ensure you're getting the best possible price.

Legitimate Food Plans

Food plans can be both good and bad. As food costs increase more unethical food plan dealers appear, giving the entire industry a bad name. There are legitimate food plan operators who will provide you with an adequate supply of brand name groceries and meat of your choice with a reasonable handling charge. No high-pressure sales techniques are employed.

Make sure you understand exactly what you're getting before signing any food contract. Be sure you know the cuts and grades of meat you are getting, as well as the quality and quantity of groceries, plus the itemized costs. Be suspicious of membership (service and handling charges) which can cost you several hundreds of dollars for a six-month period.

Some food plans operate on the premise of selling you a freezer. This gives the operator even more profit because the cost of the appliance is inflated.

Another Food Gimmick

Don't fall for advertisements offering beef for 69 cents a pound. This is another version of the old "bait-and-switch" gimmick. The dealer has no intention of selling beef at the advertised price. He will point out the defects claiming the beef is inferior because it is very fat or too lean. He will then try and sell you higher cost meat. Unless you know your meat grades and are familiar with an untrimmed carcass you may never know if you are being taken.

Should you buy the higher priced meat, you have no guarantee that the meat you choose will be sold to you or that you will get the full weight contracted for. It is easy for an unethical dealer to switch carcasses.

Before signing a contract it is important to find out if all charges are included in this "bargain" price. Usually the price goes up considerably when cutting, wrapping and other service charges are included. Your best protection is your own awareness.
