Hill Whips Kentville

Arnie Vanderweyde popped in two goals Tuesday night as the Richmond Hill Legion Midgets downed Kentville, Nova Scotia 3-0 to retain their slim chance of winning the 1974 Seventh Annual International Midget Hockey tournament. The win came on the heels of a disappointing open-game loss Monday night to Ottawa. "There's no doubt we played poorly against Ottawa," concedes Coach Peter Artemchuk. "And we still weren't all that sharp against Kentville. We beat that same team 9-2 in an exhibition match before the tournament opened." The Midgets played well enough to win as goalie Gerry Tipold came up with some key saves to earn his shutout despite not being tested that often.

There have been only two injuries in the tournament to date, both to referees.

WINNING GOAL
Steve Hodgins scored what proved to be the winning goal in the first period on passes from Tony Robinson and Gerry Tipold.

There was no scoring in the second period but the locals upped the score to 3-0 in the final 20 minutes. Vanderweyde got the first one from Kerry Minor and Rob McCullough and followed this up with his second one of the night from Mike Gallagher and Tony Robinson.

"I thought Bob McCullough played well for us in that game," observed Artemchuk. "He was throwing his weight around and you need that kind of action to win."

GOOD GOAL TENDING
Artemchuk was also happy with the goaling of Tipold who "came up with a sharp game and made some big saves for us."

Artemchuk is still unhappy about the sharpness, or lack of it, of his players. "We're in a slump and I just hope we pull out of it by the time we meet Kingston. They're in something of a slump also and I hope they stay in it for awhile. They
