PERRY HILL ATOM RAMS

The Rams flew to Framingham, Mass., March 29 to participate in the second annual Perini Invitational Hockey Tournament. The Richmond Hill team was the only Canadian one in the tournament and played their first game March 30 against Lexington, Mass. Although the Rams put up a good fight the Lexington team won 4-3.

Saturday night the Hillers played the host team, Framingham Jets, before a capacity crowd and again lost a hard-fought contest by 4-2. Sunday morning saw Richmond Hill play a team from Acton, Mass., in a very fast, physical game and lost this one by 2-1.

High point of the venture was the Richmond Hill goal-tenders, Doug Macklin and Lorne Baxter, who won the best goalies' award.

As this is the last report of the season, Coach Donoghue would like to thank all the players, parents and everyone else connected with the team for their cooperation and support throughout the season.

Sport Spots

and he sincerely feels a sports stadium-complex would be much more desirable than other types of development. He also feels sports has been neglected and deserves a bit of attention itself.

ENTER PROBLEMS

Enter the problem. In any situation you have differing viewpoints. A community is comprised of many different kinds of people. Some are sports fans, others are not, still others both.

This was evident (to me) from that public meeting the other night. There were people for the stadium, against it, some in between, and a lot wondering about the sheer fact it's being offered to them. But that meeting saw only 160 people there. There are 34,000 people in Richmond Hill right now. The answer, to me, is obvious. You people better get up off your permanent and let council know your feelings pro or con.

As in any major project, there are many questions to be asked, answers to be given. There's no doubt that council, being rightfully political animals, will be swayed by the reaction you give it. It's well known that politicians follow people, not lead them. Nothing wrong with this. Strictly a political reality. Parmata has stated that it will do a more complete feasibility study of the area after it finds out whether the people of Richmond Hill (and/or the council) are for or against the project. They point out it would be too costly to do so without some indication of backing from the powers-that-be.

Then again, how can people judge if they don't have all the answers re traffic and the general impact (good or bad) on the community in general?

FEASIBILITY STUDY

Maybe some agreement could be reached that the town would agree to the proposal providing a feasibility study came up with the right answers? For Parmata and the town. I don't know.

I don't think I'm taking a negative attitude to the stadium. I personally, would love to see it here. However, I'm just one person. There are a lot of other people out there who might have different ideas. One more thing: One big question above all questions is whether the City of Toronto would even agree to selling the property for this type of usage. Do they and Metro want a stadium up here?

Of course, if they don't pay their taxes the town may get the property the classical way. In two years. Amen.

MINOR BANTAMS

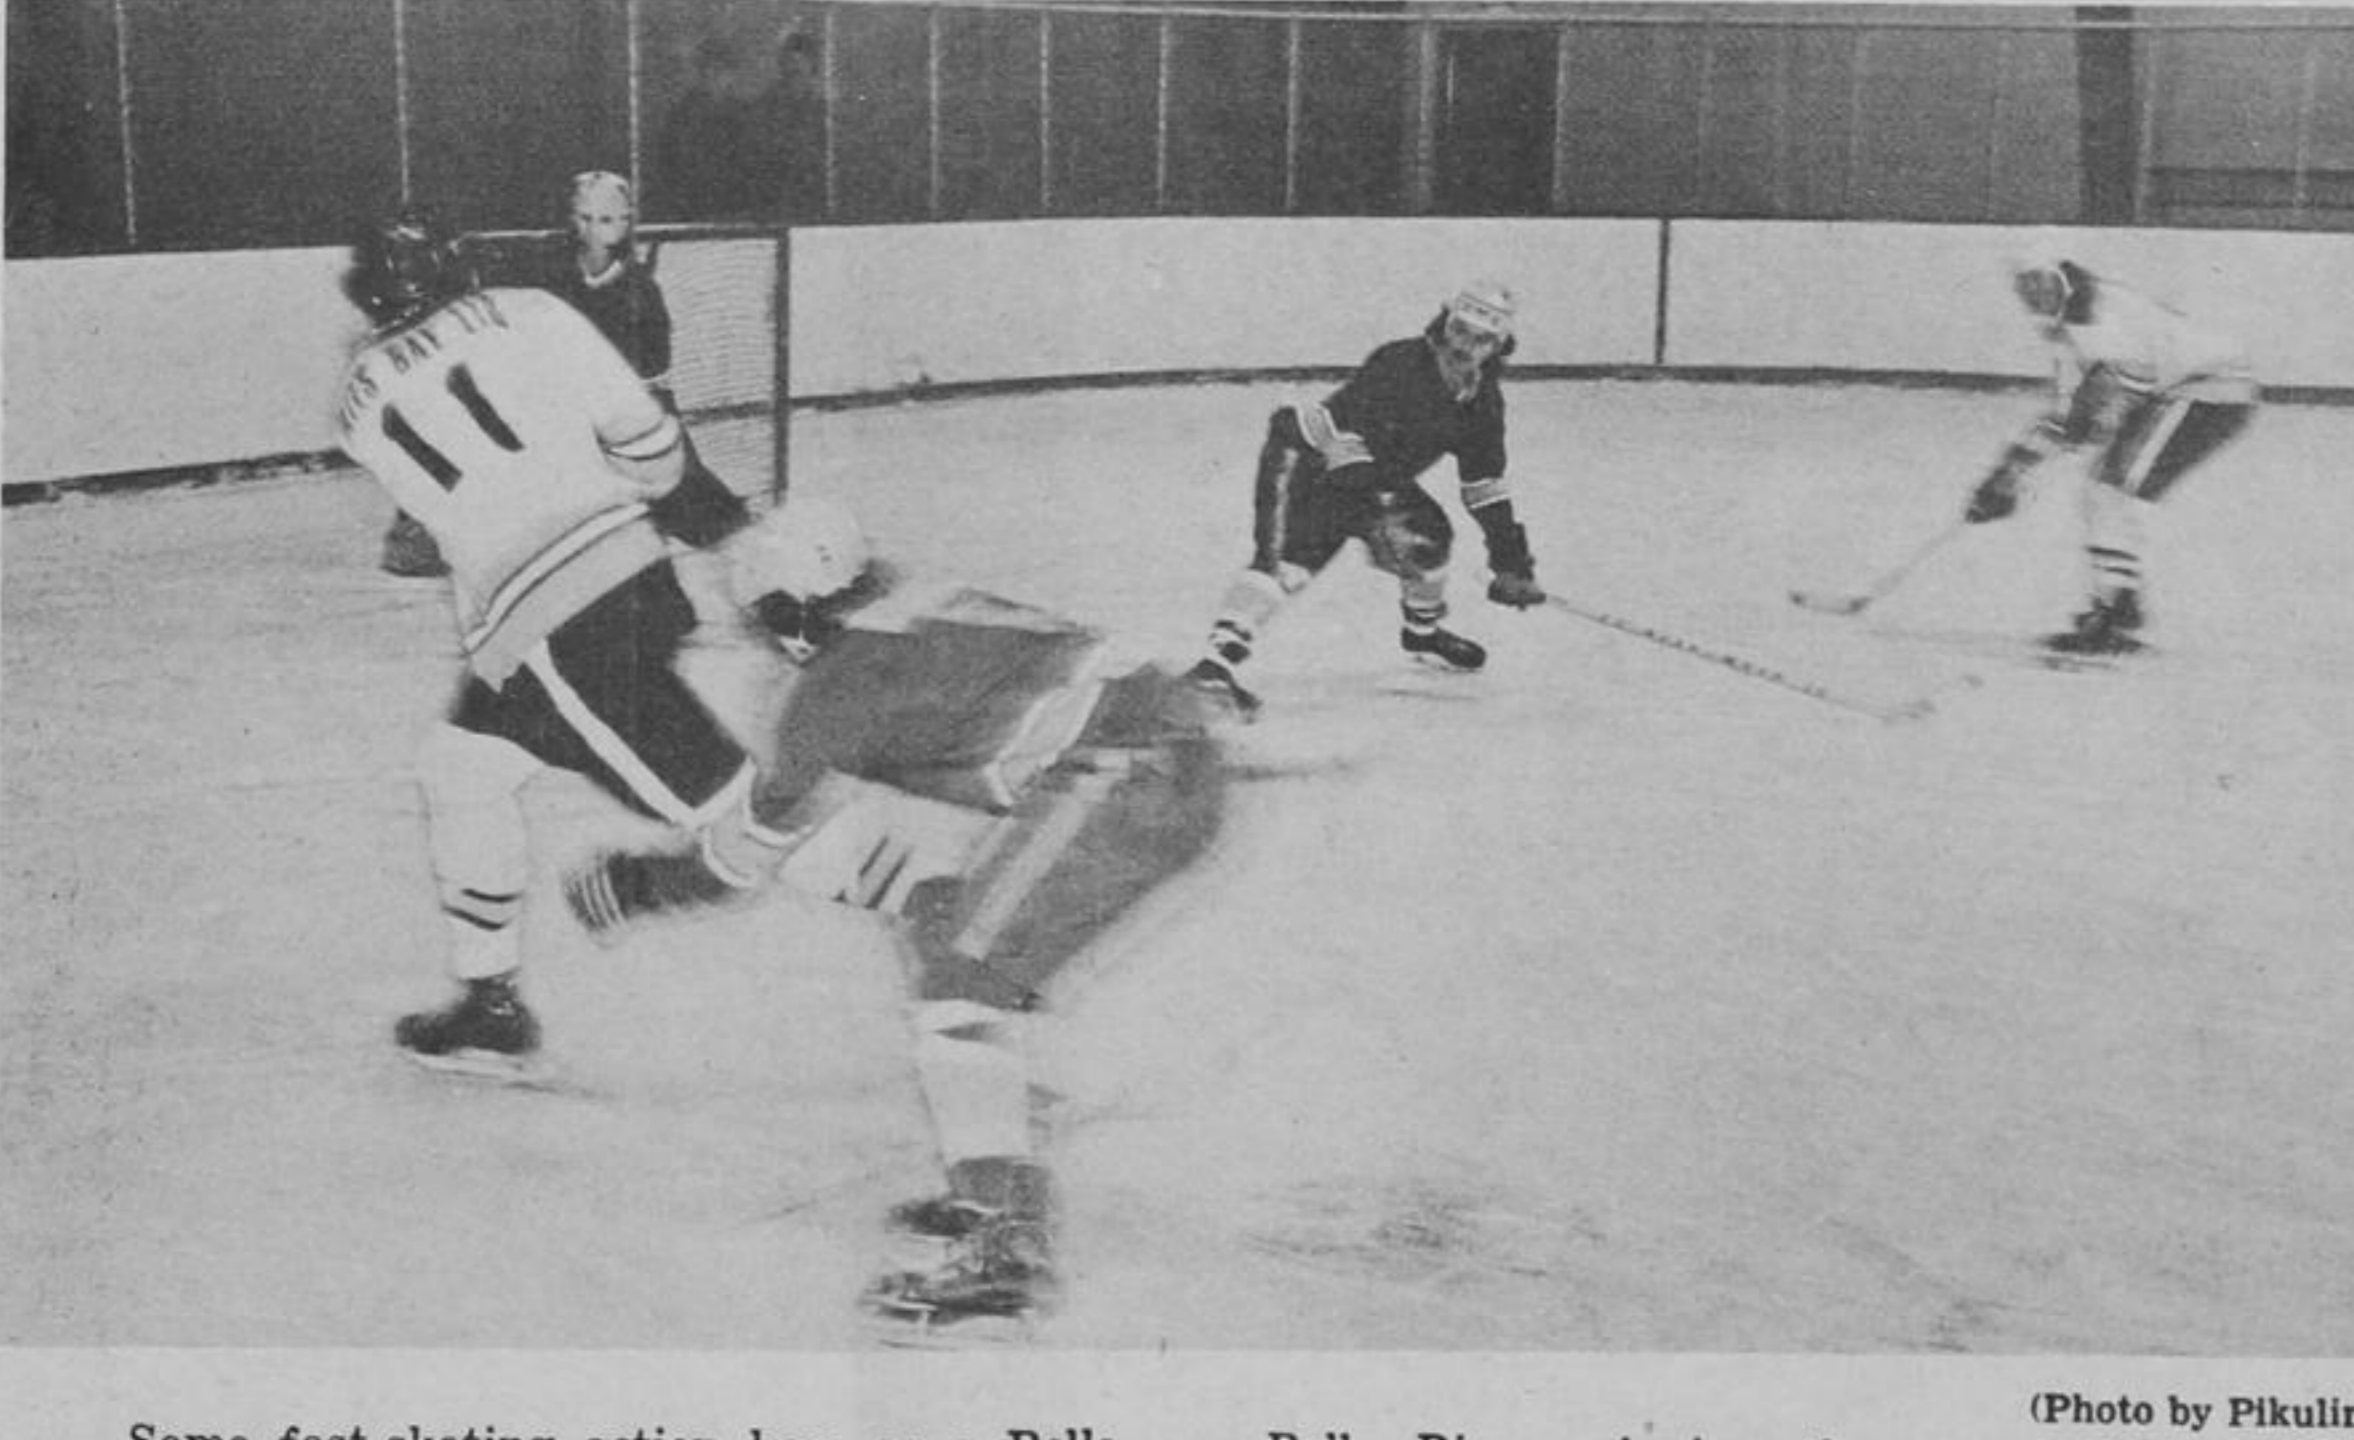

Hockey playoffs here find the Richmond Hill Tournament's Incorporated Minor Bantams tied at two games apiece with Chatham in their best-of-five OMHA Championship Finals. The fifth and final game was slated for Tuesday night at the arena. More on this next week.

GEORGE HASKETT

Sad news here to the effect that George Haskett, 64, of Newmarket, one of Ontario's best known weekly sports editors, died Friday of last week in Lakeland, Florida, after a lengthy illness. George was sports editor of the Newmarket Era for years and was a familiar figure around softball circles in Richmond Hill during that time. It was George who first dubbed Russell Cripps of the Dynes Jewellers as "Casey" a way back when. The name stuck.

Some fast-skating action here as a Belle River player zeroes in on the Oak Ridges Juvenile goalie Sunday afternoon in a game won 6-5 by Oak Ridges. It was the second game of the best-of-five OMHA finals with Belle River winning the opener 4-3. Both games were played at Bond Lake Arena. The series concludes with games at Belle River Friday at 7:15 pm; Saturday at 7:15 pm; and, if necessary, Sunday at 4:15 pm.

A Hard Shot On Goal

A three-goal spurge by Larry Gueran carried the Oak Ridges Juveniles to a 6-5 win over Belle River Sunday and tied their best-of-five OMHA Championship Final Series at one game apiece at Bond Lake Arena.

Belle River had opened the playoffs Saturday at Bond Lake with a 4-3 win. The playoff continues tomorrow night at 7:15; Saturday at 7:15; and (if necessary) Sunday at 4:15. All the remaining games will be played at Belle River.

Sunday's game saw a scoreless first period but it was anything but that in the middle session as Oak Ridges outscored the visitors 5-2 and had a big margin in the play.

Oak Ridges' Terry Legge started things off in the second assisted by Al Heintzman and Brian Jones. The Belle River boys came back to tie the game and then go ahead 2-1 before the roof fell in as Oak Ridges poured home four unanswered goals. Dale Roffey tied the game with 11 minutes remaining from Larry Gueran. Then came two straight goals by Gueran, one assisted by Heintzman; and, finally, a goal by Legge from Heintzman with a little less than three minutes to go. The persistent Belle River team came out skating in the third period to make it 5-3 before Oak Ridges' Gueran scored to make it 6-3. Two more goals by Belle River tightened it to 6-5 but Oak Ridges managed to hang on to win the game.

Lennie Bishop played outstanding hockey in the nets for Oak Ridges as did his counterpart James Renaud in the opposite end. Saturday's opener saw Oak Ridges do everything but score enough goals as they donated the game most of the way. They just couldn't get past Renaud in the Belle River nets. Belle River led 2-0 at the end of the first and 3-0 before Gueran got the locals into the game in the second from Al Heintzman. It was 4-1 with two seconds remaining in the second as Belle River scored again.

Oak Ridges found its scoring eye in the third as Terry Legge scored unassisted and Gueran added to the total from Heintzman and Brian Jones.
