Caretakers

(Continued from page 1) schools will be contracted out or that the board won't renew the contracts of the eight schools now under contract," said the union's Houghton.
 "The local felt that it was a case of close the schools or try again. So they decided to try again in the best interests of both the students and CUPE members, most of whom are also both parents and ratepayers. The negotiating committee wish to thank the ratepayer and teacher groups and others who worked so hard to avoid a strike, and others who pledged financial and moral support had we gone out. Also we wish to thank the Watchers of Educational Bureaucracy (WEB) and the news media for their coverage and releases to the ratepayers" concluded CUPE Negotiator Houghton's statement to this newspaper.

Because of you... today a man is on a dusty road leading south from Rawalpindi... reporting, analyzing, probing — to send you an eye-witness story. Other Christian Science Monitor reporters are gathering facts for you in Moscow, Nairobi, Beirut, London, Tokyo, San Francisco, and Washington.
 Because you need to understand what's happening in order to change what's wrong and to support what's right. The Christian Science Monitor gives you the facts, and reports how problems are being solved. It keeps you informed but not depressed — the Monitor has a uniquely hopeful outlook. News, commentary, art, entertainment, fashion, sports, business, family: a lively daily newspaper (Monday - Friday) with something for everyone. For 13¢ a day — less than two postage stamps.

Send me 4 months of the Monitor — over 100 issues — for only $11.
