Nearly Wiped Out, Markham Town Calls Premier Davis

threat with its ribbon of concrete and asphalt. At least this can be adequately screened by landscaping, being at a surface level. Add to this the transmission line with its vertical accent, the Belt will take on more the aspect of a utility corridor rather than a "parkway".
It is the town's submission that the joint use of the Parkway Belt and the utility corridor will undermine the Parkway Belt as constituted. The BHI Report points out that the Parkway Belt section between Yonge Street and Bayview Avenue is in close proximity to high density residential areas and could satisfy the need for outdoor recreational facilities. But strangely it fails to mention the effect of the transmission lines not only on the belt itself but also to the high density residential areas located so close to it.

The same problem would be created along the boundary of Stages 3 and 4 areas in the Official Plan of the town, east of Bayview Avenue, where the town has proposed that the Parkway Belt be modified to allow residential development to complete the Thornhill urbanized community.
The transmission line parallels proposed Highway 407 between Bayview Avenue and Yonge Street and its crossing of these arterial roads will involve the inter-sections of 407 and Highway 7 as well. The confluence of so many elements at these crossings will create engineering problems which no doubt will be solved.

But the mind boggles at the thought of what gargantuan physical forms these (Langstaff) crossings will create. Whether these will be compatible with the urban areas in close proximity or the Parkway Belt concept are points that can be questioned seriously.

Markham also attacks the economics of the Parkway Belt Hydro Corridor route, saying that according to the BHI Limited findings this route could just as easily prove to be more expensive as it could prove to be cheaper. The town is critical of the Solandt Commission's decision to abandon attempts to accurately estimate the cost of various route alternatives.

"It is difficult to comprehend the Commission's reluctance to get involved in a process which requires subjective judgments in evaluating many of the variables required for a cost benefit analysis when such value judgments formed part of the technique used by BHI.

CARD OF THANKS
The family of the late Mr. Charles Joseph Harding wish to express their sincere appreciation to their many relatives, friends, and neighbors for the many acts of kindness, beautiful floral tributes, donations to the heart fund, cancer fund, York Central Hospital and cards received during their recent bereavement of a beloved husband and father. Especially thanking Rev. Bernard Barrett, Mr. Grant Marshall and staff and the members of St. Mary's Anglican Church.
—Edna Harding and daughters, June Roberts, Ruth Masters and Phyllis Roberts. clw44

We would like to thank our many friends, relatives and neighbors for floral tributes, cards, telephone calls from far and near, during our recent bereavement of my dear sister, wife and mother, Susanah O. Dixon of Belleville, Ontario and everyone who helped us in so many ways.
—Elizabeth A. Snider (Lizzie) and family. clw44

I wish to thank all my friends, relatives, neighbors for their kindness, cards and flowers during my stay in York Central Hospital and to the doctors, nurses and staff. Sincerely, Mrs. Ernest Bone clw44

"Markham finds it surprising that the Commission, though recognizing the importance of a formal cost benefits analysis, decided against it on grounds of expediency," says the draft submission which the Markham councillors propose to carry personally in their hands down to a Queen's Park meeting with Premier Davis and his Cabinet.
