Public Library
There will be a story hour each Wednesday at 1:30 pm at the Colborne Street Library for young children, throughout the summer. This program began on June 3.

Cedar Trouble
Have you noticed the brown needles on the cedars? This is due to the Cedar Leaf Miner, a bug which specializes in cedars. I asked the Natural Resources Department at Maple, what should be done about it. I was advised that a systemic poison is required such as dimethoate. Since the bugs do not come out into the open, the birds will not be able to eat the poisoned insects.

Thornhill Cemetery
Members of the improvement committee of the Thornhill Cemetery have completed arrangements for the annual Memorial service to be held Sunday at 3 pm. The officiating minister will be Major David Hammond of the Salvation Army. Also as in past years the North York Temple, under the direction of Deputy-Band Master Ken Graham, will take part in the remembrance service. This is very much appreciated.

Although some chairs will be provided, those attending are asked to bring lawn chairs if possible. Please inform anybody who may be interested in coming to this service.

Welcome Wagon Club
The Welcome Wagon Club of Thornhill held its first Annual Luncheon Meeting at the Bayview Golf and Country Club on May 22. Evelyn Gardella, the out-going president, was in the chair. There was a very enjoyable luncheon. Following it the new officers for the 1974/75 year were installed as follows:

President Betty Arcangeli, 1st Vice-President Bev Anderson, 2nd Vice-President Lola Wheeler, Secretary Betty Stevenson, Treasurer Fran Welch, Membership Chairman Kay Duncanson, Social Chairman Marie Ryan, Publicity and Newsletter Estelle Bigue, Historian Lyn White.

A very amusing skit was performed with skill by Bev Anderson, Barb Fuhro, Kay Duncanson, Louise Levy and Myra Dickson. The meeting ended with the presentations to two members who are leaving, and to the president and two past presidents.

At St. Luke's Roman Catholic on May 26 there was a delightful and impressive service in which the Statue of the Virgin was crowned with flowers. May is the Virgin's Month. The service was arranged by the grade six-ers of St. Robert's Roman Catholic School under the direction of Ross Lawler.

Father Childrow asked all the school children from the three schools - St. Luke's and St. Anthony's - as well as St. Robert's - to join the procession. The children all left their parents in the church and gathered in the hallway. There they were presented by the church council with a rosary for each child. There had been previously blessed by Father Childrow.

The procession was led by members of room 202, the cherub choir and the junior and senior choirs from St. Robert's. The other children joined them, went to the front of the church, and then returned to the seats beside their parents.

The crowning was done by Diane Tiberio while the choir sang an appropriate hymn. Two of the children led in prayer: Martha Sheridan and Timothy Maxwell.

The statues are very beautiful, very simple, and carved from Idaho sandstone. Heinz Mueller who lives on Colonsay Road and is a member of the church, designed them. The service closed with the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Stoffville 6, OASA Squirts 4 First CANAC Cardinals Loss

BY MARG HOUGHTON
The Thornhill OASA Canac Cardinal Squirts suffered their first loss of the season to undefeated Stoffville 6-4 at the Cardinals' home diamond at Grandview on Wednesday.

Stoffville capitalized on six errors to pile up five runs in the first inning. Stoffville were finally retired on two strikeouts by Jonathan Angel and a tag by third baseman Chris Gove from catcher Scott Daly. Good pitching by Stoffville held Thornhill to three, and a scoreless first.

A more determined Thornhill squad took the field in the second. Although two bases were stolen on further errors by the Cards, no further runs were scored through the second third and fourth innings. Eight out of nine batters were put out.

LOADED BASES
The Thornhill Canac Cardinals finally found the ball in the bottom of the fourth. With one away, Ron Reiders reached first on an infield error by Stoffville, and continued to second. Cleanup batter Greg Peack brought Reiders in for the first time on a good single. Peack then stole second and third on the next three pitches. He then shook up the Stoffville defense by stealing home under the nose of a surprised pitcher and catcher. The Cards proceeded to load the bases, but retired on a final strike-out.

Stoffville were again held scoreless in the fifth, with Thornhill pressing with determined effort to scratch the effect of that first inning. The Cards continued in the sixth with Angel on after a single, Paul Thomas on with a double. A sacrifice by Reiders brought Angel home. Thomas made it two on a double by Gove.

SCORELESS INNINGS
The fifth closed with the score 5-4 for Stoffville. Both teams continued the struggle, in a scoreless sixth. A home run by Stoffville in the seventh and the Cards lined up for traditional congratulations to Stoffville on a fine contest. But add "Just wait until Thursday when next we meet this team in Stoffville", assured the Thornhill boys.

Thornhill Senior Adults Visit Hamilton's Dundurn Castle

BY MARGARET GOVAN
North Thornhill Correspondent

Rev. Alf McAlister of Thornhill United drove a bus load of senior adults on a delightful trip to Dundurn Castle in Hamilton May 23. The forecast was for rain but the day proved to be one of the loveliest this spring.

The adults left the church at 9:30 and reached Hamilton approximately an hour later. By special arrangement they were shown through the castle at 11 am so there was just time to view the aviary before the tour started. The group was divided into three, each having its own conducted tour. The guides were the maids' outfits of about 1850.

THORNHILL CONNECTION
The castle is situated on Hamilton Bay. There are in the neighborhood of 35 rooms. All but three of them are furnished in the style of the 19th Century. The remaining rooms are used as a museum. This castle was built by Alan McNab who for a time was owner of the now gone Pomona Mills on John Street in Thornhill.

The restoration of the castle was the Centennial project of the City of Hamilton and the result is well worth viewing. The beautiful antique furniture aroused great admiration. The paintings and pictures were very interesting and the whole building is a monument to the life of the aristocracy in the 19th Century.

The greatest interest was aroused in the basement. Here was tangible proof of how servants lived in the early days of our country. The floors and the long, dark passages were made of red brick. We can envisage the servants scrubbing the cold, damp floors on their hands and knees. It was here also, where they ate and slept.

WAS SELF-SUFFICIENT
In these days of supermarkets it is hard to believe that in those days most houses had to be self-sufficient and most things made in the home. The basement included a well room and cistern, a dairy room, ice pit, laundry room, coal and wood rooms, larders, wine cellar, even a room for brewing beer. They made their own candles, dried their own spices, and preserved their own fruit and vegetables.

The tour took a full hour. The group then lunched in the park and visited the gift shop before starting home. It was a very tired but happy group which arrived back at the church.

SUDDEN ILLNESS
It was regretted that the sudden illness of Reginald Sparks prevented him and his wife from going on the trip. The club hopes he'll recover quickly.

The next meeting is scheduled for June 13 at 1 pm. This is an important meeting to discuss future plans, so it is desirable that all members be present to share ideas and suggestions. Also would everybody start thinking about the Christmas bazaar and make or donate some articles to be put by for that was tangible proof of how occasion.

Before choosing a Funeral Director - consider what he makes available.

Too often the choice of a Funeral Director is a last minute decision.

You should consider these important items:

- Is his funeral home conveniently located?
- To your parish church?
- To other members of your family?
- To your friends?
- Is he well referred?
- Does his funeral home and facilities measure up to your expectations?
- Can you discuss freely with him?
- Is he a member of his professional association?

Every member of the Ontario Funeral Service Association is guided by a CODE OF ETHICS which offers protection to those who need the assistance of a funeral director.

ABOUT YOUR GLASSES

by Ralph Drew, Consultant to the Canadian Guild of Dispensing Opticians

A word about Bifocals
A golfer might be surprised, and perhaps a little hurt, if you told him that a pair of bifocal lenses was similar, but superior, to the bag of clubs he carries around! But it's true. He totes the heavy clubs because one club won't do for all occasions. In one pair of bifocal lenses are the ingredients for almost all occasions.

A good story, but only partly true! You must have noticed that dozens of different kinds of bifocals are worn. Why so many? There are two reasons. One is the prescription indication, the other is the way the glasses are used.

If prescription needs are specific, your doctor and optician will tell you. But in most cases the same prescription can be compounded in many different bifocal designs. It all depends on your life style, the kind of work and hobbies you have. The choice is an interesting one, and the visual rewards are considerable.

How is the choice made? First, the bifocal is a two-part lens, the upper area usually for distance-focussing, the lower part, called the segment, for near use. Either section is larger or smaller according to its practical significance. For example, a person working all day at a desk would have a very wide lower segment, whereas it could be quite small for someone who does very little close work. There are all kinds and sizes of segments to match almost any visual habit, in glass or optical plastic, sun-tinted or clear, you name it. Some called cosmetic bifocals have no visible dividing line and look like ordinary single focus lenses. It shouldn't surprise you how many patients find these interesting! There are even special designs for surgeons, tennis players, plumbers, even opticians!

How do you decide? Your dispensing optician will guide you. He will show you the different bifocal types and explain their application. And, a cautious conservative man, he won't let you make a wrong decision. Incidentally, there's a bifocal specially designed for the golfer to see he marks his card correctly.

This public service announcement is brought to you through the courtesy of Steeles Optical, Towne & Country Square.
