Hill Versus Aurora In All-Star Industrial Softball

Deep Diving Bell At Seneca King

With a lake right on campus, Seneca King is fast developing a reputation as the centre for commercial diving studies under leadership of course Director Bob Landry. The college is training both full and part-time students in use of the latest in diving equipment and techniques. It has recently acquired the underwater laboratory "Subliminos" on loan from the MacInnis Foundation. This deep diving bell will allow students to profile three to five hour excursions in the under-water habitat when they are periodically "looking out" to undertake related projects on the lake bottom.

Last spring, full-time students in Seneca's underwater skills program were involved in the Arctic IV scientific and research expedition part of which will be broadcast live on national television from Resolute Bay in the Arctic, and it is expected, will subsequently be described in an issue of National Geographic.

PART-TIME STUDENTS

Underwater skills are being offered to part-time students at Seneca King in basic skin and scuba diving programs and a series of advanced divers' seminars. In weekend seminars, personnel and facilities not otherwise available are used. On September 28 and 29, the first seminar for this season will deal with underwater photography.

UNDERWATER PICTURES

This concentrated presentation on equipment, techniques and process will include various types of cameras, housing, light meters and lenses. Emphasis will be placed on turbid water and artificial light.

During October an industrial diving orientation program will be presented, and during November a seminar in hydrogeology. For further information on these and other of the more than 150 part-time subjects at Seneca King call 884-9901 or 895-1581.

Hail The New Champions

Last week saw the finish of the Club Championships. The serious ones anyway — the Mixed Senior Singles Handicap is yet to come. The weather was anything but kind throughout and again we had another windy final day, with the bite of winter in the air. It was all change in the winners' circle as one after another the defending champions bit the dust.

Steve Cox, picking up his third singles title round these parts, ended Phil August's four-year reign as club singles champion when he beat Phil 7-6, 6-2. Eleanor Lloyd, a winner in this event before, took defending champion June Beck's title from her by a similar score, 6-3, 7-6. These matches finished off the Singles Tournament which was cut short by rain the previous weekend.

DOUBLES EVENTS
Sunday the Men's and Ladies' Doubles events were decided. Helen Butterworth and Joyce Jones used their experience to good effect against their less senior opponents Joy August and Monica Vermuelen, beating them 7-5, 6-2. Joy and Monica, who had disposed of defending champs June Beck and Eleanor Lloyd in straight sets in the semis, had their momentum taken away from them in that third set and Helen and Joyce didn't allow them to get it back again.

Four days previous H and J had reached the final of the ICTA Veteran Ladies' Doubles at Mayfair Valley. After watching them I find it hard to believe either that they lost or that they were eligible. Val Bruhn and Carol Draper beat Karen Hitchinson and Pat Lohman to win the Consolation event.

In the Men's Doubles, the 1973 champions Phil August and Arnie Balogh moved into the final at the expense of Brian and Dennis Stainer, while Steve Cox and Don McCrae got there by winning a tough match against Peter Wenzel and Phil Blanchard. Once again the defending champions went down to defeat as the young duo of Don and Steve forged a 6-3, 3-5, 6-4 win in the lonely dark of a cold Sunday night.

The Consolation was won by — need I tell you? — John Marais and John Beck. They beat John and Julian Handbury in the final. And don't say I didn't warn you.

ICTA TROPHIES
These will be presented on October 18 at the ICTA dinner dance at the Town and Country Eat as much as you like from the French buffet. The ladies team will receive their league winners trophy at this function.

HANDICAP SINGLES
This is a joint ladies and men's fun event starting at 10 am Saturday of next week. Closing date is October 3. Entry list in the clubhouse. The fee of 50 cents is a bargain — balls are provided and so is lunch.

FINAL NOTE
One more champion was defeated this weekend, and undeservedly. Jack Brodric, Richmond Hill Tennis Club's elder statesman and friend to so many of us, died Sunday morning. Jack was a longtime member of this club and treasurer for so many years that the idea of any other seemed unnecessary.

He was a warm, kind, and gentle man with a twinkle in his eye, a friendly smile, and a ready wit. I knew him only a few years and those of you who knew him longer were fortunate. We'll miss his poems, his funny reports at the AGM, his help and advice, and above all his friendship. Our sympathy goes to his wife and family.

Now there was a man with real humor, I'm glad I knew him. And I don't much feel like writing tonight.

Dairy Queen Squirts Oust Pottageville Two Straight

The Richmond Hill Dairy Queen Squirts literally breezed through the first round of their York Simcoe softball playoff round drubbing Pottageville by 24-1 and 11-1.

Richmond Hill picked up four runs in the first inning on singles by Darrell Lewis, Matt Thompson, a double by Paul Harrietha and a homerun by Warren Nye.

They added three more in the second on singles by Kevin Robin, Lewis and Thompson who ended up stealing home.

Richmond Hill got another run in the third on a homer by Robbie McKenzie.

POTTAGEVILLE FLUTTER
Pottageville fluttered briefly to life in the fourth when the first batter walked and the third batter got the only hit of the game for the losers.

Richmond Hill broke the bank in the fourth with eight runs on a double and triple by Farrell, homeruns by Thompson and Nye, his second of the game, a single by Wayne Girard and doubles by McKenzie and John Hunsdale.

Winning pitcher was Paul Harrietha who tossed the first three and a half innings and struck out eight and gave up one hit. Glenn Apps relieved Paul after three and a half and struck out six and gave up no hits. The game was called after six due to curfew.

SECOND GAME
The Dairy Queen boys scored four runs in the first in the second game on singles by Farrell and Apps and a double by Hunsdale and a triple by Nye.

Pottageville got its only run in the first inning when the first two batters singled.

Richmond Hill was on the scoreboard for two more runs in the top of the fourth as Neil Moreland singled, Darrell Lewis doubled, Lewis then proceeded to steal third and home.

They added another run in the fifth on singles by Hunsdale and Kevin Robin.

Then came four more in the seventh on singles by Harrietha and Nye and doubles by Hunsdale and Wayne Langdon.

Winnipeg hurler was Glenn Apps who struck out 11 while allowing only three hits. Harrietha pitched the

Rangers Win First Via 4-2 Newmarket

The Richmond Hill soccer Rangers opened their league playoffs Saturday with an impressive 4-2 win over Newmarket.

Coach Tom Young made a few positional changes prior to the game and it proved to be a good move as Captain John White moved up from right half to inside right and Allan Martin from right wing to right half.

Andy Godchalk opened the scoring on a defensive error and John White got the second goal on a well-executed passing play from Andy Brennan and Jan Dorst.

Newmarket got one of the goals back and from then on both teams played positional soccer.

Jan Dorst got the next two goals for the Rangers with Newmarket only able to get one more.

Ranger players Jimmy Leitch and Godchalk were sent off the park for disputing Newmarket's second goal claiming it was off-side.

Richmond Hill meets Newmarket next Saturday at 3 pm at Pearson Park.
