Neighborhood Notes
Who could have guessed it? Snow so early! Although it looked beautiful from inside, it was a surprise to me and to a whole lot of others, I imagine. The leaves are so beautiful just now I just had to try to capture the beauty on film to bring us pleasure on snowy, blowy winter days. With the colorful trees and the crisp air, it's really lovely along the concession roads at present.

Community Notes
Mrs. Jessie MacRae and son Charlie are in Richmond Hill visiting her son Lindsay and his wife Sadie. They also visited a nephew Hughie MacRae and family and paid a visit to yours truly. Mrs. MacRae comes from MacIntyre's Lake in Nova Scotia and will be flying home soon. Hope she has a pleasant visit and safe journey home.

Crystal Owzarek is confined to her home under the doctor's care. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Birthdays
A happy birthday is wished for Gus Amodeo on his twentieth October 2. Six of his friends called to extend best wishes.

Carrville Road United Church will have a thanksgiving service this Sunday morning, at the regular service time of 9.45. The congregation would like to welcome many new people in the area to their small friendly church.

The Sunday school is at the same hour and has room for more children of all ages. The teachers have started a special very interesting program for this fall.

The UCW met last night (Tuesday) and made final plans for the turkey supper to be held October 30 from 4.30 to 8 pm. Everyone is welcome. Put the date on your calendar now for this wonderful meal. There will be all the turkey you can eat and every kind of homemade pie you can think of.

The Maple Pentecostal Church has service every Sunday afternoon at 2 pm in the Masonic Hall on Keele Street. There is always a good service with good gospel music. For more information call Alton Dudley at 767-7973

Local family's Danforth Radio opening store at Hillcrest

The Gibson brothers were not born in York Region, but they like it and three of them live here. Now they are bringing their business, probably the largest of its kind in Canada, to our municipality.

It was in 1923 that Harold, Arthur and Tom Gibson opened the first Danforth Radio Store at Danforth and Woodbine Avenues in Toronto.

Tomorrow (Thursday) the family, now with the second generation very much involved, will open its 12th store and it will be here in Hillcrest Mall, Yonge Street and Carrville Road in Richmond Hill. It is, says Arthur Gibson, chairman of the board, the largest family-owned appliance business in Ontario — probably the largest in Canada.

Arthur is a long-time resident of the region. In 1946 he bought Summit Farms on Yonge Street, Richmond Hill, in the community known then as Jefferson.

He raised Hereford cattle, and the first polled Hereford cattle sale in Ontario took place on his farm. In 1954 his prize bull carried off top honors at both the CNE and the Royal Winter Fair.

THORNHILL RESIDENTS
Now Arthur lives in Thornhill, as do Tom and Wilfred, the fourth Gibson brother, who joined the firm in 1933.

In the comfortable lounge of Thornhill Golf and Country Club, Arthur recalled the early days of Danforth Radio for the benefit of a reporter from "The Liberal".

With capital of about $100 they manufactured everything they sold — crystal sets, one and two tube radios. . . There were no loudspeakers, just earphones for listening, and it was difficult to tune into a Toronto station. The city's first station, CFCA, owned by the Toronto Star, broadcast for only one to two hours a day.

However radios were becoming more sophisticated. More stations were in operation in and around Metro and the company was expanding.

EXPANSION SURGE
After a period of dormancy in the '30s came another surge of expansion. Danforth Radio was selling television sets before Canada had a television station. Its first installation was in a downtown tavern, then two demonstration sets were installed in the then new and magnificent Odeon Theatre on Carleton Street.

The company grew with stereos, household appliances, and a major expansion in the early '60s when it entered the furniture situations.

Harold Gibson was president of the company until his death in 1946. He was succeeded by brother Arthur, and when Arthur became chairman of the board in September, he in turn was succeeded by his son, Bill, a graduate of the University of Toronto in industrial engineering who received his earlier education at Richmond Hill High School and Thornhill Secondary.

COMMUNITY SERVICE
The senior Gibsons are a very active and busy group. Even though they have spent some 51 years in the business, they have still had time for community service.

Arthur served as a trustee for the old Jefferson School Board, is a keen curler, a member of Richmond Hill Curling Club, and an avid sports fan. He is also past president of the Danforth Lions Club.

president and sales manager of the company until 1972, he now serves as a consultant.

In Thornhill he was instigator of the Lions' very popular and profitable annual auction sale. He is now involved in planning the Lions' community centre activities.

The Gibsons, including Wilfred's son Barry, and Arthur's younger son Hank, a graduate in business administration from Humber College, laughingly dub Danforth Radio as an "All In The Family" business.

JOINED FAMILY
There are others, however, who have been "ex officio" members of the family for many years. For example, Fred Warburton, a vice president and an employee of the company since 1933.

Then there is Ed Robinson, superintendent of the 12 Danforth Radio stores, who is coming to Richmond Hill as manager of the new store at Hillcrest Mall.

OPENING CEREMONY
Richmond Hill's Mayor William Lazenby will officiate at the opening at 1 p.m. tomorrow, and customers will be eligible for some $4,000 worth of merchandise in an opening special draw.
