Maple area social news

Those people who only travel west on Major McKenzie Drive occasionally, should note the new traffic lights at the intersection of Major MacKenzie and Jane Street are now in operation.

Best wishes to Reg and Marg Thacker on the occasion of their 35th wedding anniversary, November 11 — many more to come is our wish for them.

Pauline and Frank Steele are thoroughly enjoying their new home. Former residents of Lancer Drive and wanting a larger home, but not wishing to leave Maple, they were fortunate to acquire the lovely home which belonged to Pat and Jim James. They are indeed happy and well settled in.

It was a pleasure to see both Alice Miller and Betty Hodgson out on Friday night helping in St. Stephen's Church Hall. Both have been on the ailing list for a time and we all were happy to see them.

There will be a committee meeting of the Vaughan Council Monday evening November 18 at 7:30 pm. The committee meetings are usually interesting and sometimes very lively and worth the effort to attend.

On Saturday of next week the first of three Kingcraft Studios will take place, from 10 am until 3:30 pm. This will be an opportunity to purchase the lovely articles created by the talented members of this group.

French classroom lack controversy in Maple

By Valerie Tinline
I urge the York County Board of Education to immediately install a portable classroom at George Bailey Senior Public School in Maple for the express purpose of giving Mme. Heffron a room in which to most effectively teach French.

Signature _____
A form so worded was sent to all families having children at George Bailey School. Over sixty percent of the forms were signed in the affirmative and returned to the school.

If a classroom is not provided for Mme. Heffron, George Bailey School might lose her. Parents consider this would be a tragedy, as they feel she is a dedicated and exceptional teacher. The board has been aware of this situation for some time and it would appear that no action has been taken.

Therefore the parents of the Parent Teacher Liaison Committee of George Bailey

School have invited the members of the York County Board to attend a public meeting at George Bailey School November 20 at 8 pm. to defend their seeming lack of action. Those who are seeking election to the Board of Education are invited to attend also, to learn of the situation, and state their position should they be elected.

Parents who have children attending George Bailey School and those who's children will attend in the future are asked to attend this meeting and show support.
