Lawyer candidate has bylaw to protect trees, old homes

Woodbridge lawyer John Poot, who is one of nine candidates for Vaughan's five councillor-at-large seats, proposes a bylaw to save Vaughan's shade trees and historical buildings.

He says his idea is innovative because it places the responsibility for conservation on those most concerned with conservation.

Poot said a bylaw which requires owners of trees or historic buildings to apply for a permit to destroy either is too onerous.

He suggests that if someone feels a tree or home should be saved the person should apply for a "preservation order" from the town.

Then the owner of the property must object to a committee in order to have the "preservation order" removed.

No restriction on the sale of property would be implied by his bylaw but the conservation issue could be settled in a public hearing, he said.

In the case of an historic building, the town might decide to buy it rather than allow it to be sold to a private individual, he suggests.

The 30-year-old father of three also suggests stricter "architectural controls" on the construction of new buildings.

Poot is also concerned about the erosion of local autonomy in Vaughan and developments in Vaughan because they waste land, Poot advocates a mix of housing that reflects the economic cross-section of the community and allows everyone who works in Vaughan to also live in Vaughan.

Poot said the only way the province can avoid growth in Vaughan is through the encouragement of growth centres a significant distance from Toronto.

John Poot
Vaughan candidate

wonders if the town will have the power to deal effectively with growth pressures.

He says it is unrealistic to say Vaughan can resist growth pressures, so it should accept new homes so growth will be "on its own terms" and communities can be planned.

Poot called it a joke that Vaughan has to go to York Region to request a change of the speed limit on Kipling Avenue. "That's a purely local street," he said.

He called the Pine Valley Village proposal for 20,000 people east of Woodbridge an "abortion" because it is completely outside the official plan for Woodbridge and the concept of a community.

MMHA Candy drive a sweet success

During October, many of the would-be goblins who play hockey in Maple, went door knocking to sell over 1500 packages of Hallowe'en candy.

On the evening of October 31, they and their friends gathered it up again. Not only did they insure a good supply for Hallowe'en in the Maple, Concord area, but through their efforts over $550.00 was raised to support boys' and girls' minor hockey.

A great deal of appreciation is due to the many mothers and fathers who helped by distributing the candy and through buying from the boys and girls.

Top sellers were Cathy Smillie and Brent Ivens. For their fine efforts, each has received a transistor radio.

Other boys and girls who showed outstanding salesmanship were David West, Blair Ivens, Vicky Smillie, Chris Cook, David Jurczak, Steven Kucherauw, Scott Grahman, Terry Tarling, Eddie Hebscher, David Cook, Greg Krawczyk and Andy Bittner.

Recreation committee elections December 5

The next meeting of Maple Area Recreation Committee will take place at 7:30 pm December 5, in the council chambers of the Vaughan municipal offices, Maple. At this time nominations for new members to the executive will be welcomed from the floor. The present committee numbers nine and the constitution, to be ratified at this meeting, calls for a maximum of 12 members.

MARC is a volunteer group of Maple residents who attempt to ensure that recreation activities requested by a few members of the community are promoted to see if there is sufficient interest to form a group.

If instruction is required, the committee endeavours to locate competent leaders.

M.A.R.C., in consultation with the group, sets the fee for the activity and usually provides financial assistance from grants provided through Vaughan recreation department.

Activities sponsored directly by MARC include figure skating, gymnastics, guitar lessons, decoupage, ceramics, ladies' fitness and volleyball, badminton, art classes and Yoga. Activities that receive some financial assistance through MARC are Maple Hockey, Baseball and Ladies Curling.

The following have agreed to stand for re-election at the December meeting: JoAnn Bodi, June Cameron, Hugh Cook, Carol Flynn, Mike Jones, Mary Norcliffe, Silvia Pickles, Joan Robson, Audrey Sandford.

Meetings are normally held the first Thursday of each month.

George Bailey parents hear trustee candidates tonight

Maple News
Parents with children attending George Bailey School are reminded of the public meeting at 8 pm tonight with the members of the York County Board of Education and candidates who are running for election to that board.

Has anyone found two keys on a holder with a small maple leaf, in the vicinity of the Maple post office or Maple Plaza? If so, would you please turn them in at the counter of the Post Office as their owner is anxious to have them back.

Maple resident Audrey Armstrong's book "Harness in the Parlor", published by Musson Book Company, has gone into its second printing.

Hope they do a speedy job, as we understand many are waiting to purchase a copy. If you are lucky enough to find one, it would make a delightful Christmas gift.

On Monday afternoon a coffee party was held at the home of Mrs. Sheila West of Weller Crescent, to introduce Councillor Jim Cameron of Maple and Lorna Jackson of Woodbridge, to some of the residents of Maple.

Co-hostess for the afternoon was Mrs. Mary Norcliffe.

Cameron is well known to most residents of Maple and the guests were most interested in meeting Jackson.

Maple Ball Association:
Ron Hoare has been named as official representative to the Ontario Amateur Softball Association by the Maple Ball Association.

School News
Joseph A. Gibson:
Roy Robson wonders if anyone has a clothes' rack which is not in use.

It would be extremely handy to dry wet mitts during the winter season. Wet winter clothing can be quite a problem to the teachers as you can well imagine.

If you can help in this matter please call 832-1291.

George Bailey:
Report cards will be sent home sometime during the first week of December, after which time arrangements will be made for Parent-Teacher interviews.

Russell Urquhart, the principal of George Bailey, reminds parents that December 10 will be a Professional Development Day.

The school staff plan to continue their inservice program on reading development with Mrs. Charlotte Whitcombe, consultant in special education, from the East York Board of Education.

The George Bailey staff would like to be able to help those with difficulties, and encourage those who are doing well to achieve even greater results.

Ladies Bowling:
This week's standings have the Bananas and Apples each with 12 points. The Oranges and Cherries both have nine points. Plums and Pears, seven points apiece. The Peaches and Grapes at the bottom with zero.

High single for the evening was Marg Crook with 257 and high triple was Ann King with 662. Still with the high average, but slipping a bit is Audrey Ross with 200.

Scouts:
Members of the Maple Boy Scouts are still selling Christmas Cakes. These cakes are a good buy at $5 each, as you would pay more for the same cake in the stores.

The boys are selling them, but if you have been missed in the door-to-door sale, call

Ross Garratt at 832-1098 and place your order.

Lion's Turkey Shoot:
The turkey shoot sponsored by Maple Lions will take place at Sur-Gain Farm, Saturday, December 7 at 1 pm. You may purchase one chance, or more from any member of the Lions or the Maple Boy Scouts.

Cruise:
Brigitta and Mike Weidenfelder of Clemons Crescent have returned from a cruise.

They flew to Puerto Rico and boarded the cruise ship Italia, which docked first at Curacao.

Next stop was Caracas, Venezuela, which to Brigitta, was the high point of the tour. She said that the city and surrounding countryside were simply beautiful and that she would be happy to go back again anytime.

They then saw Trinidad and went back to Puerto Rico.

They flew to New York where they visited with friends before heading home. They were most enthusiastic about their trip.

Contractor calling for Vaughan growth

The only candidate for election to one of Vaughan's five councillor-at-large seats to admit he strongly favors residential development is Maple Contractor Angelo Giancola.

A resident of Maple for the past five years, having first moved to Richmond Hill after leaving Italy in the mid-1950s, Giancola would like to see Vaughan become "a place to work, a place to live, and place to shop".

In the past, those people elected to office have not tried hard enough to encourage population growth in Vaughan, he said.

And as a result, Vaughan has fallen far behind places like Richmond Hill, he said.

Need population
Vaughan needs a higher population, Giancola feels, in order to afford better public transit and recreation facilities.

Hold church parade

On Remembrance Sunday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Maple, a Church parade was held. The Maple Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies paraded bearing their colours and attended a special Remembrance service.

During the service the Break Thru's, St. Andrew's youth group sang folk tunes, one being "The Universal Soldier" and another being "Morning has Broken".

The theme of The Reverend George French's sermon was "Power in Weakness".

A wreath, presented during the service, was a composite of three previous Remembrance observances. The morning's collection was to be given to the Christian Children's Fund.

Meanwhile, ladies of Maple United Church Women were pleased with the results of their fall fair, and would like to thank all who attended, and all of those who worked so hard in making it a great success.

Put a mark on your calendar for December 8 at 7:30 p.m. There will be a special Christmas concert at St. Stephen's Anglican Church. More information later.

Vaughan should have control over the development, however. He objects to the Ontario Housing Action Program backed development proposal for 20,000 new residents in Woodbridge.

The town should push to have this population growth spread into the other communities and should also push for sewer and water services in those communities, Giancola argues.

Opposes dumping
Stating he is opposed to the dumping of garbage in Maple, Giancola said he doubts it can be stopped. However he says Vaughan should be compensated financially for permitting the dumping and use the money to improve recreation facilities.

Anticipating charges he will have a conflict of interest if elected to office, the sewer and watermain construction firm owner said he would have no advantage over other contractors when bidding for contracts.
