Study early high school entrance
York County Board of Education will conduct a study into the feasibility of housing public school children in high school before their time.
Approval for the study was made by the board following receipt of a letter from a committee of parents in Whitechurch - Stouffville.
The parents said they were concerned with the status of the grade 8 pupils there who were slated to be taken out of Orchard Park and Summitview Public Schools. They are to be enrolled in secondary school as a matter of expedience.
"Grade 8 students in a secondary school environment lose their identity," the parents wrote.
"At this critical age and stage of their development identification with their peers plays a very important role. There is pressure to compete and adjust to advanced ideas and attitudes."
The writers - Mary Baggs, Marion Wells and Pearl Wideman, who represented a steering committee - said they felt "the social and emotional atmosphere in the elementary schools is much better geared to their level of development. This we feel is far more important than any advantages gained by added classes or shops," the committee said.
Trustee William Laird of Georgina Township asked the report be made available by March.
