he allegedly reneged on the approval of a full legislative grant by some $22,000 for alterations to Newmarket High School.

That is the contention of Vice-chairman Craig Cribar of Newmarket. Cribar said the minister had agreed to pay the full amount of $223,767, because it was "a special case," due to certain fire requirements.

Ordinary procedure is to pay 90 percent, it was pointed out. Cribar said the board should question the minister and ask him what he means when "he pledges funds" and doesn't follow through. "We have it in writing," he said, "and it's time we drew it to his attention that he's not always saying the same thing."

He then moved the staff approach the minister and ask for funds.

Trustee Doreen Quirk of Markham said it was standard formula to pay 90 percent and felt it might hurt the board's case to get approval for proposed extensions to Woodbridge High School "if we make a fuss."

Fellow Markham Trustee Chris McMonagle disagreed. It would be necessary to approach the minister on the matter, so he would know "we're not going to take it sitting down."

Reviewing the motion, Chairman Don Sim of Markham said it was "to get back to the minister and tell him he 'welched' on the deal."

The meeting agreed to send a letter to Wells under the chairman's signature.
