

Intimacy is never once-and-for-all achievement in marriage

Correspondent

... And intimacy is never a once-and-for-all achievement but must be nurtured throughout marriage; with this care, it grows and changes with the stages and seasons of marriage.

This quotation from "The Intimate Marriage" by Howard and Charlotte Clinebell, and other similar quotes adorned the walls of Hillcrest Auditorium Monday evening of last week when Richmond Hill-Thornhill Area Family Services held the last of a four part series on Marriage Enrichment.

Approximately 150 people gathered to listen to a talk on "The Insecurity of Marriage" by Mrs. Mary Sue McCarthy.

She is a dynamic speaker and was formerly on staff at Family Services but is now at York University.

It was a most stimulating evening to say the least.

If you are interested in attending future marriage growth groups or effective parenting courses, values workshops, transactional analysis classes, etcetera, call Family Services at 884-9148.

Guides and Brownies
Watch out for the cookie monster!

If he realizes the Guides and Brownies are having their blitz for cookies May 7, he may come calling.

This year each girl will be assigned one street only and it will not necessarily be the street she lives on.

Please do not wait for that sweet little girl down the street to call at your house because she may have been allocated a different area.

The chocolate and vanilla cookies, at 75 cents a box, will be sold May 7 only, with proceeds going to the Girl Guide Association, so do support this venture, and stop up while you can.

Greenthumb Party
A Greenthumb Party was held during the Time Out Program on Wednesday last. The idea was sparked by Eunice Campbell of Kitsilano Crescent and Grace Engelsman of Springhead Gardens.

These two ladies began holding parties during February. They have an interesting display of plants, terrariums and a variety of planters.

They also have macrame hangings which they make themselves. All these items cater to a housewife's budget.

If you are interested in getting a few friends together to hold a Greenthumb Party call Eunice at 884-3978.

Grace is in Holland at present gathering more ideas for happy growing.

Cancer Society
A big bouquet of thanks — to go with the daffodils — to each of the girls who canvassed on behalf of the Canadian Cancer Society: Shirley Aylan-Parker Springhead Gardens; Barbara Boer, Kitsilano Crescent; Anne Dunne, Castle Rock Drive; Sandra Hinch, Rathfon Crescent; Dianne Jeanneault, Penwick Crescent; Mary Roberts, Avenue Road, Joanne Sodek, Castle Rock Drive and Donna Stellar, Springhead Gardens.

My personal thanks to all who dug deeply into their pockets and donated so generously.

In this, my first year of canvassing, I was quite overwhelmed by the response.

Neighborhood notes
Congratulations to Edna and Keese Schipper of Avenue Road on the arrival of their first child — a girl — born April 23. Her name is Erin Julie.

Last week's column was slightly jumbled, so to set a few things straight.

The Steak-In to be held

Saturday night at St. Mary's Anglican Church, Wrixon Hall, is not to be confused with the pitching clinic at Roselawn Public School which starts tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 pm.

Any ladies or girls interested in becoming Guide or Brownie leaders may contact Elaine Hobbs at 889-2897, rather than the number listed in last week's column.

Girl Guides will travel in 65th year

This is the 65th year of Guiding in Canada with girls and women of all ages, cultures, creeds and economic levels involved across the country.

To make it an outstanding year in the history of Guiding, the Girl Guides of Canada, (the whole family of Brownies, Guides, Rangers, Cadets, etc.) are being encouraged to become involved in Canada's mainstream through travel and exchange, neighborhood service projects and cultural get-togethers.

More than a quarter of a million girls will be discovering their own communities, their province, Canada and Canadian life-styles.

Ten girls from each province and from the Yukon, will discover their national capital, Ottawa, from June 28 to July 7, when they will live in homes of Ottawa citizens and discuss Canada with government leaders and ambassadors.

Throughout July and August, groups of girls (14-19) will travel to other provinces and exchange visits with girls of these provinces which have a diversity of geography and lifestyle.
