Richmond Hill Historical Society President Janet Fayle wields a floor scraper.

Refurbish Burr House

The first citizen work party at the Rowland Burr house on Carrville Road, west of Roselawn School was held this month and the initial steps in refurbishing this more than a century-and-a-half old home were accomplished.

When the work is finished the house will become a craft centre for the municipality. The next work meeting is scheduled for May 31.

Richmond Hill Historical Society volunteers worked hard lifting the floor tile so the original wood floors can be refinished.

Other workers were busy washing windows, stripping wallpaper, washing woodwork, clearing out the summer kitchen and shed and raking outside.

Want silent weekends

Buttonville and area residents are again making a valiant attempt to make the powers-that-be pay attention to the dangers inherent at Buttonville Airport.

They also hope for some sort of legislation which would give them two weekends a month free from the annoyance of aircraft buzzing overhead, and limit the size and activity at private airports across Canada.

At present there is no such government control.

During warm weather in good flying weather, there is no way residents can enjoy their homes and gardens in peace and quiet, without the almost constant buzz of planes overhead.

They planned to demonstrate last Sunday morning on the airport road, to draw attention to their plight.

WI meeting
Wednesday evening of last week Buttonville WI members demonstrated their skill in handiwork by producing handmade articles when the roll was called at a meeting at Buttonville WI Hall.

Items modelled or displayed included dresses, afghans, a hat, aprons, a hand-knitted sweater, and a plate of fudge.

There were readings by Mrs. Alvin Robinson and Mrs. Lloyd Baker, and the evening ended with a game of bingo.

Mrs. Ernie Walton has been in poor health recently, but hoped to be able to attend her grandson's wedding last weekend.

Guests at the wedding last weekend when John Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Stewart was married at Westway United Church, were members of the Brown's Corners United Church 'Pairs and Spares'. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Miller returned recently from a trip to Texas and Pueblo, Colorado, where they visited their daughter and son-in-law's family, the Donald Otises.

Congratulations to Mrs. William Palmer who celebrated a birthday on May 21.
