King City's versatile auctioneer

Local auctioneer Gord Orr has many talents. Not only can he conduct an auction sale efficiently, he is involved in most community activities. The above picture shows him hard at work as the caller at bingo at the recent street dance which celebrated completion of paving of the parking lot at the community centre.

Township studies terrain analysis

A plan for a terrain analysis as part of King Township's secondary planning study was presented to council last week by Ian Hale of a Toronto engineering company.

The study, as outlined by Hale would consist of aerial photography of the 11 square miles occupied by the township's three villages — Nobleton, Schomberg and King City.

Reliable interpreted data could then be substantiated by field investigation where necessary, he said.

Cost of the terrain analysis on a "general" basis was estimated to be between $10,000 and $15,000.

Mayor Margaret Britnell felt that something more comprehensive might be necessary, and asked how much more that might cost the township.

Councillor Bill Long of Schomberg pointed out that at present council has to depend on engineering studies provided by developers who are only interested in the perimeters of their own holdings, and felt the study, even on a comprehensive basis, could well be necessary.

Councillor Bill Foran of Schomberg thought the study unnecessary. He thought the township should look at generalities first and get down to specifics later.

Decision on the matter will be made at a later date.

Old church road

The access road to Laskay United Church, informally known for many years as Old Church Road, has now been officially named by King Township Council.

On the request of area residents it is now formally and legally named Old Church Road.

Back to school on yellow bus

By Millie Stewart

I can see them standing there now. Some are very small and some again are quite tall.

They are laughing and happy and full of energy. All of a sudden, the school bus is seen coming down the road. Then it stops, and one by one they climb aboard for the ride to school.

Words can paint a lovely picture, can't they? But the picture isn't always so rosy.

Some children are lucky, and their bus picks them up on a side road or a concession road where there isn't much traffic.

Other children, however, must wait for their school bus on a busy road or a highway like Yonge St.

Now children, being full of youth and energy, are inclined to play while waiting for the school bus. Sometimes the games can become very active and some shoving and pushing can occur.

Most parents will think that very active play is perfectly normal. And they will be right. But rough play does not belong at the school bus stop.

It only takes a fraction of a second for a small child to be pushed onto the road and into the path of the oncoming traffic.

The point I am trying to get across is this.

If the parents would please take the time to teach the children a few basic safety rules and that the road is not a playground, and if the motorists would exercise a little caution, our children will be safer.

Then we will be hearing shouts of "Oh boy, no more school until next September" when the big yellow buses bring them home next June.

Must establish school need

Markham town council has reluctantly accepted that Ontario's hurry-up Housing Action Program cannot provide complete communities before the people move in.

Councillors hoped a school would be ready for the new residents of the W.B. Sullivan Construction townhouse development at John Street and Bayview Avenue.

But the need for a school must be established positively before the ministry of education will approve of a new building.

Nevertheless, councillors said they were satisfied after a meeting with York County Board of Education officials last week a school will be built as soon as possible.

Director of Education Sam Chapman said $670,000 for a 350-student, Kindergarten-to-Grade 8 school has been approved by the ministry.

The board will soon select an architect and the building may be opened as early as Christmas 1976.

Leaving for Zambia

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kanitz (Carol) and their children, Stefan, Kristi, Justin and Tiffany, are winging their way to a brand new home many thousand miles away in Zambia (Africa).

Peter and Carol and the children will take up residence in Lusaka, the capitol of Zambia. Peter will be holding the office of inspector in the Department of Technical Education and Vocational Training for the Ministry of Education of Zambia.

The Kanitz family have lived in Oak Ridges for six years. Peter is leaving his post as professor of chemistry and engineering at Seneca College in King.

Carol has always been active in the community. She has been a member of the Oak Ridges, Lake Wilcox Branch of the York Central Hospital Auxiliary for the past six years and also gave many hours to the King City Co-operative Nursery School as a parent and also as a teacher.

They are leaving many friends behind them, but we all wish them "Bon Voyage" and lots of good luck in their new home.

They will be away about two years. When Peter's tour of office is over, they will be returning "home" to Oak Ridges.

Fun! fun! fun!

Full skirts, penny loafers and white bucks are all in style. I'll bet by now you're scratching your head. But hold on. It's true. They are in fashion for one night only. It's a "swinging 50's" dance. Just think of all your favorite dates and the lovely tunes. The big night is September 13 at Bond Lake Arena at 8:30 p.m. The admission is $6 per couple. All proceeds go to the Bond Lake Skating Club, the Oak Ridges Minor Hockey Association and Junior B Hockey. So recall your memories, get yourself a date and get ready to "Shake, Rattle, and Roll".
