

Delta Lambda accepts eight pledges

Eight pledges were recently accepted into Richmond Hill's Delta Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at Ritual of Jewels ceremonies in Aurora. They are, front row (left to right) Cary Newton, Judy Sheridan, and Monica Dewar; back row, Janet Hodge, Nancy Lomas, Anne Lloyd, Anne Winstone and Lynne Larivee.

We must change soon or face chaos

By Mark Innes, minister
Christ the King
Lutheran Church,
Thornhill

from the churches

The comic strip, "The Wizard of Id", recently presented a parable. The king was asked what he thought would be the most popular sin.

The king replied, "I like greed best". This is his favorite because greed is so much a part of his character.

It is not only the King of Id who is infected with greed. Observers declare our present day society is riddled with it, and that same greed could bring about economic chaos!

Unchecked profits, the obsession for higher wages, the demand for easier and less work, unchecked litigations, and a whole Pandora's box of items have been unleashed upon our society.

Instinctively we know it cannot go on indefinitely. The reaction of the public to government checks on inflation will satisfy some of the demand to hold ourselves back.

Even here, though, not everyone is willing to cooperate. There are some who preach we ought to break the law and get all we can!

Greed not licked

The problem of greed is not licked yet. The prime minister was right when he said that to lick inflation we have to learn to curb our own desires.

This is an area where everybody can pitch in and do his part.

It appears the final solution will be found only in a change of heart.

If we break out of our obsessions and find our ultimate worth not in what we have, but in what we can do for others, then the spiral would cease.

We would then be putting our efforts in service rather than gain.

The odd thing about this is that the solution has who loses his life for my sake will find it."

A lost life

Jesus readily knew the life that was turned in upon itself was a lost life. The only way we can be whole is to turn outward and "love God and our neighbor as ourselves".

Normally we are slow to react to sermons. It will be hardly be otherwise with this kind of sermonizing.

Slow or fast, from this point of view, if there are not significant changes soon, there will be chaos for sure!

Mother made wedding cake

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ranieri

from Vancouver, wore a full length gown of polyester mint green jersey, V neckline and cap sleeves.

Bridesmaid Terry Prospero wore a peach gown of same style. Both had matching headpieces and carried nosegays of peach roses, white carnations, baby's breath and mums.

Flowergirl Meghan Walkom, niece of the bride looked adorable in her peach gown, with high neckline and carried a basket of flowers, with matching headpiece.

Best man was Mike Bransfield and John Ranieri brother of the groom was usher. The groom and his attendants wore green tuxedos, mint green shirts, and velvet green bow-ties.

The reception at the King Valley Chalet in King City was attended by 200 guests. The bride's mother received wearing a beige silk knit gown with matching lace jacket, corsage of pink roses and white baby's breath.

A honeymoon in Quebec followed the Sept. 6 wedding of Glenda Waterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Waterson of King City and Paul Ranieri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ranieri of Osiris Drive, Richmond Hill.

The double ring ceremony took place at Our Lady Queen of the World Roman Catholic Church with Father Francis Robinson officiating.

Peter Ranieri, the groom's brother and Ken Walkom, the bride's brother-in-law read the Epistle.

Bringing the offertory gifts were Gail and Donna Ranieri, the groom's sisters, and Shawn Walkom, bride's nephew.

The altar was decorated with large baskets of mixed white mums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride and her attendants walked down the aisle to Song of Joy played by Craig Snider.

The bride looked radiant in her gown of white cotton eyelet, with high frill neckline, full length sleeves, full length accenting the front bodice and cuffs of sleeves. She wore a gold piece necklace, a family heirloom, given to her mother by her grandfather.

Her white flowered crown veil her shoulder length veil, carried a colonial bouquet of all white roses, spider mums, stephanotus, and baby's breath.

Her cousin, matron of honor L. A. Champigny
