RICHMOND HILL — Most Christians in Canada use Lent in part as a time to think about our responsibilities in the development of the whole world.

We live in a world where many people are still starving to death and facing disease and pollution and other dehumanizing realities. Accordingly, the Christians of the world

To help us think about this, I quote a Declaration of Concern which follows called the Shakertown Pledge, in which a group of persons covenanted together to reduce their levels of consumption, to share their personal wealth with the world's poor and to work for a new social order in which all people have equal access to the resources

1. I declare myself to be a world citizen.
2. I commit myself to lead an ecologically sound life.
3. I commit myself to lead a life of creative simplicity and to share my personal wealth with the world's poor.
4. I commit myself to join with others in reshaping institutions in order to bring about a more just global society in which each person has full access to the needed resources for their physical, emotional, intellectual and spiritual growth.

5. I commit myself to occupational accountability and in so doing I will seek to avoid the creation products which cause harm to others.

examine continually my relations with others, and to attempt to relate honestly, morally and lovingly to those around me.
