Giants

Georgian Bay holds many of these giants. I have seen fish going close to the record in the water, and there is no reason that one cannot latch onto such a fish. Most of my trips will be to the Point au Baril area for Smallmouth, as I had great luck there while using leeches.

The whole Georgian Bay area from Midland to Manitoulin Island is tops as far as I'm concerned. As you need a boat in those waters, and probably a guide, a trip should last a few days to pay off.

Smallmouth Bass are taken along the mouths of such rivers as the Gibson, Moon and Shawanaga. By the mouth, I mean where the inland waters merge into the open areas of Georgian Bay, and this can be miles away from the shorelines near the highways.

Smallmouth Bass

Lake Simcoe has a very good Smallmouth Bass population. The area around Sibbalds Point Park and all along the Beaverton shoreline is very rocky and clear. Still fishing over some rocks and trolling along the shore can be very productive. Actually, almost all of Kashawakamak near Kaladar for the smallmouth hotspots are accessible only by boat, so let's take a look at some Largemouth Bass haunts.

All inlets and large rivers along Georgian Bay hold Largemouth Bass, as do most of the lakes in the Kawartha region and lakes in eastern Ontario.

by the most ardent anglers.

Minnows hooked in the mouth with a weedless hook are cast among the many sunken logs and waterlilies. One of my favourite spots is a swamp with about one foot of water where there are several large muskrat houses with many undercut entrances. If you can be quiet and patient, drop your minnow into one of these holes, and you can expect a tremendous explosion. I have seen four and five pound bass taken from there several times. At the marina and boat livery on the lake the operator is always ready to give you all kinds of hints as well as professional guiding services.

Where to go

The areas I have mentioned is where I will be spending most of my time this year. In the past, however, I have found the following waters very good for Bass fishing: both species; Lake Scugog for Largemouth as well as Walleye and Musky; Balsam Lake near Fenlon Falls, and most of the lakes connected to the Trent water system.

As this is your lucky year, I suggest you take a camera along for 'a picture of that big one. Get an extra one, write your name, the size of the fish and where it was taken, and send it to Trailblazers in care of this paper. Maybe I can talk the
