

Library official named

RICHMOND HILL — Leigh Swain, formerly of Mississauga, has been named co-ordinator of systems for the Richmond Hill-based Central Ontario Regional Library System (CORLS.)

Swain was assistant to the head of technical services, Mississauga public library.

Here, he will co-ordinate the computer-based circulation of books and library materials among public libraries in Markham, Mississauga, Brampton, Whitby and Richmond Hill.

He will also be responsible for the co-ordination of audio-visual programs and materials, and will supervise the organization of the professional library literature collection at CORLS headquarters.

Swain will act as a liaison between CORLS and the Midwestern Regional Library System in Kitchener, and will also co-ordinate the production of the guide to periodicals and newspapers.

He is a member of the Directors of Regional Library Systems, technical services committee, and a member of the advisory committee for library technicians at Seneca College.

The Central Ontario Regional Library System co-ordinates services for public libraries in the regions of Peel, York and Durham.

Essayists offered big money

RICHMOND HILL — More than $10,000 will be shared by three young writers in each province, in the 10th year of Canada Permanent Trust Company's essay contest for high school students.

Information and regulations for this year's contest are available from principals of local schools.

The best student writer in Canada will receive a grand prize of $1,000.

Entries may be submitted in either English or French, and judging emphasis will be based upon writing ability, imagination and interest.

Each year the company publishes a book containing the first prize-winning entries in each province. The book is made available to school libraries and is also used by teachers in classroom instruction.

The contest is for the best 2,500-word composition on any subject. The final date for submission of entries is Dec. 31 and winners are advised by letter two months later.

Keath Barrie in TV show

TORONTO — Ian Adnams, a former Richmond Hill resident and Bayview Secondary graduate, is producer of a Thanksgiving television special starring Keath Barrie on Global TV Sunday.

Barrie, a popular singer who lives in Godwood, is host of the show, which is being produced in co-operation with the Salvation Army.

Remember When...

There was a time when it was strictly a man's world. Women were totally dependent. Today many women do not wish to depend on anyone for their financial security. For the past 10 years I have been providing women with life insurance designed to meet their own special needs. Let me help you. Just call me.
