

Three candidates in Markham's Ward 6

BUTTONVILLE — Two more candidates have decided to seek the rural, Ward 6 seat on Markham council. Elson Miles, 47, and Wayne Patterson, 30, join Alex Cowley in the contest for the ward which is largest in area but smallest in population of any in Markham. Miles grew up and worked on the family farm in Milliken before moving to the Cachet area. He is past president of the crop improvement association and the cattlemen's association in York. Miles served four years on the old area school board, being its first chairman, and was a founder of the Markham museum. He feels he has the experience, time and leadership ability for the council seat. Patterson, a tax consultant, says he is one of a number of young businessmen who think they should take an active part in Markham affairs. "We probably have more to lose than anyone else," he says. He thinks senior levels of government have too much say over municipal affairs. Born and raised in Markham, he and his wife and two children now live on a farm north of Unionville.
