

Magna downs Ridges

RICHMOND HILL — The Richmond Hill Magna Midgets downed Oak Ridges 5-1 Tuesday night of last week with the whole team playing well.

Ditto the goaltending of Brian Casey and Paul Shewchuck.

Magna scorers were R. Roberts with two, G. Gentry, two and Mark Gossman. Assists to S. Taylor, J. Wood, D. Guard and M. Gossman.

The weekend saw Magna playing back-to-back games with Orillia winning at home by 2-0 and losing away Sunday by 4-3.

Shewchuck handled the goaltending chores at home and earned his shutout. Scoring for Magna were J. Tuck and Ray Roberts with Doug Anderson earning two assists.

Richmond Hill appeared to have a letdown Sunday and didn't play up to its potential. They were also missing four regulars and this appeared to have an up-setting influence.

They held the lead most of the way but faltered in the home stretch and lost 4-3.

The Orillia team was sharp and took advantage of every mistake by the Magna boys.

Scoring for Richmond Hill were: S. Taylor, D. Banton and D. Anderson. Assists to Brad O'Hara, two, D. Moore and R. Roberts.

BOOK TALK

by Margaret Carrington
A librarian looks at new Markham Library books

This week's three novels offer readers who enjoy historical fiction a wide range of time periods.

Ceremony of the Innocent by Taylor Caldwell

This practiced novelist whose Captains and the Kings has lately been a popular television offering, sets her thirty-first book in America at the very beginning of the twentieth century. The plot evolves from the experiences of a spontaneous, warm-hearted serving girl whose marriage to an immensely wealthy young man plunges her into a chilling environment where an ambitious struggle for power and political advancement is the sole governing force. (Fiction)

The Wild Life I've Led by Stuart Trueman

The author of this lively little book is a Leacock medalist, an ex-newspaperman, and an astute observer of the Canadian scene. In The Wild Life I've Led humorist Trueman describes his diverting encounters with animals from mosquitos to moose who seem to have chosen him, quite thoughtfully, as a foil for their own, slightly diabolical, senses of humor. (Non-fiction)

The Nonesuch Lure by Mary Luke
Mary Luke, well known for her exceptionally readable biographies of Mary the First and Elizabeth the Great, this time chooses to use her vast knowledge of the Tudor period to write an outstanding novel which unfolds on two different levels of history. Twentieth-century chelcher, Andrew Moffatt, following clues discovered in a journal written three hundred years earlier, travels to London to seek out a long-hidden treasure. Once there, he finds, as well, passionate romance and a horrifying sense that some evil destiny has pursued him down long corridors of time. (Fiction)

Papa — A Personal Memoir by Gregory Hemingway

As he draws this vivid portrait of his famous father, Ernest Hemingway's youngest son provides unique and private insights not only into the character of Hemingway himself but also into the personalities of quite a number of his most celebrated friends from the worlds of literature and show business. (Non-fiction)

Final Approach by Spencer Dunmore

This is a stirring, fast-moving novel about aviation's earliest days, about one man's perilous adventures with the primitive, cranky machines which obsess both his mind and his heart, about the beautiful girl he woos and marries, and about their enterprising, individualistic children. (Fiction)

She wins a quilt

RICHMOND HILL — The owner of the Richmond Hill Historical Society's Rose of Sharon quilt is Helen Stephenson of 150 Romfield, Thornhill, as the result of Monday night's draw.

The beautiful quilt was created for the society by the senior citizens and proved so popular that by the time of the draw not one ticket remained unsold.

The draw was the highlight of the society's Christmas party held at the Burr Craft House on Carrville Road which featured old fashioned games, trimming the Christmas tree with traditional garlands and Christmas goodies.
