BBB joins with movers

TORONTO — The Better Business Bureau of Toronto has joined with the Ontario Movers' Association to create a Movers' Panel.

The announcement came last week in a joint statement by John Nickell, executive secretary of the association and Paul Tuz, executive vice-president of the BBB.

This body will have the dual function of resolving consumer complaints and reviewing legislation that affects the industry.

The Movers' Panel is the latest of the BBB's industry groups, which include the floorcovering panel and the furniture panel. The panels vary somewhat in operation because each is designed according to the needs of the industry involved; but all share the twin functions of handling consumer complaints and scrutinizing legislation.

"Maintaining this balance is important," said Tuz, "because business must address itself with equal vigour to resolving consumer problems and resisting unjustified government regulation."
