

Few parents show up

SCHOMBERG — Twice cancelled, once due to snow and once due to lack of show, the St. Patrick's School Parents' Committee will try again to arrange a meeting to decide whether to continue their fight to reinstate Bill Foran as principal of their school.

Foran was principal of St. Patrick's for nine years. He was asked last April to resign by the York region Roman Catholic separate school board.

Lack of administrative ability was cited as a cause. After submitting his resignation, Foran was asked to withdraw it. Parents began a protest over the board decision by pulling their children out of school for seven days in June.

Committee probe
A two parent-two trustee committee appointed by the board in August to study the situation recommended Foran be given a position as a vice-principal in-training. I don't think that it will be acceptable to the parents, but there's not a hell of a lot they can do about it," explained committee member John Huys, referring to the committee recommendation.

Only 12 of the 90 member parents group showed up for the Monday meeting, Huys said. Another meeting is planned for next week, although no date has been set.

Forming association
Huys said that he expects a parents association will be formed "to get the parents involved with school activities".

"Had the parents been involved from the outset, I don't think that this would have happened," Huys said.
