

Wilson seeks Liberal nod

AURORA — Jim Wilson, president of the York North Provincial Liberal Association, has announced he will seek the candidacy for the Liberal Party in York North.

"I think this riding is ready for a change and I would like to be the person who represents York North in Queen's Park," said Wilson.

Wilson, a pharmaceutical salesman, has been a resident of Newmarket for five years and is a charter member of the Knights of Columbus chapter there.

Liberals will gather at Aurora High School Feb. 23 to pick a nominee for the second time since the last provincial election.

Need law for bigger RCboard

RICHMOND HILL — Trustees of the York Region Roman Catholic separate school board will take the first steps next month in seeking an amendment to the Education Act 1974.

Board Chairman John McDermott told The Liberal last week the amendment is to be put before the Ontario Separate School Trustees Association for endorsement.

It is hoped this will ultimately end up as a petition to the provincial government to allow each municipality in the region at least one trustee representative.

At the present time, as provided in the determination before the December election, the towns of Aurora and Whitchurch-Stouffville were combined to elect one trustee as were East Gwillimbury and Georgina.

"The method of determination has never been tested before," McDermott said.

"It seems strange unelected officials can decide where the elected officials will come from".

Clerks decide
The determination was decided by the clerks of Vaughan, Markham and Richmond Hill as provided in the act. McDermott said efforts to make any changes in the determination prior to the election were unsuccessful because of too little variance in assessment from one municipality to another.

Ask golf course subdivision

AURORA — For the second time in a year, Joe Shaw, owner of Aurora Highlands Golf Course, appeared before Aurora Council's planning committee to discuss plans for moving his course from Yonge St. to Bathurst and replace it with a 478-unit housing development.

Shaw said the project would have a density of six units per acre, less than the plan rejected by council a year ago.

Ontario Housing Corporation, which has a neighboring project, is trying to get a subdivision approved at four units per acre.
