Heart fund aid need

RICHMOND HILL — Volunteers are still needed throughout the year for non-campaign activities for the Canadian Heart Fund, which is observing Heart Month throughout Canada.

In fact, says the foundation, "Volunteers are our lifeblood."

The foundation said the latter are used to help initiate community programs designed to help all Canadians prevent heart disease, or reduce the possibility of acquiring it.

Volunteers also assist in canvassing homes and business places for funds.

Anyone wishing to volunteer in this area can call Richmond Hill chairman, Beth Golding, at 884-4756.

The national objective for Heart Month is $8,000,000, with Ontario responsible for $4,000.

In Canada, 72 cents of each Heart Fund dollar is spent in research. The balance is spent for campaign, 6 cents; administration, 5 cents; education and community programs, 17 cents.
