Prize home

Any bird would be proud of this house made by Craig Floyd, 8th Thornhill cubs. It was a first prize winner at the scout hobby show, Hillcrest Mall.

RICHMOND HILL — Overall winners in the York Summit District Boy Scout hobby show were the 1st Richmond Hill Scout Troop.

The show was judged Saturday after a week of activities in the Hillcrest Mall.

The troop was awarded the George Harvey Memorial Trophy.

Winners of the second place prize and finishing second overall were the 1st Langstaff Keego cub pack. The pack has only 13 members who accounted for a formidable amount of points. Prizes were awarded on the basis of the average number of points per boy in each scout unit.

Third place was taken by the 1st Richmond Hill cub pack. Both second and third place winners received Tara-Lynne Bullen trophies.

The 11th Richmond Hill Venturers, handicapped boys from the Villa Hospital, were tops among Venturer units.

About 1,500 entries were submitted to the show by 58 units, including cubs, scouts, venturers and rovers. Mortie Wagman, hobby show chairman, felt the exhibits were "just great" and all the boys' own work too.

Winter weakens show

By Marilyn McDonald and Murray Smith

THORNHILL — Ah winter, will it never end? Only 16 exhibitors were willing to entrust their choice houseplants to the hazards of near zero weather for Thornhill and District Horticultural Society's first flower show of 1977.

Entries in all sections were down and the ladies dominated the evening.

Marion Jarvie took two Best of Show awards at the Feb. 15 event.

A terrarium garden (specimen section) and a dried flower arrangement entitled How Dry I Am (decorative design section) earned the honors for Mrs. Jarvie.

Top point winner was Gina Tommasini, followed in order by: Evelyn Calladine, Marion Jarvie, Sue Nishiyama, Ethel Benson, Alice Taylor and Nancy Turner and Margaret Porter (tied), Ingrid Tschipper and Evelyn Turner (tied), Betty Cresswell, Jean Green.

Juniors Nancy Turner and Lisa Tschipper won a first and second respectively for their interpretations of Somewhere Over the Rainbow.

Guest speaker Walter Crowley, a Newmarket gladiola expert, described several aspects of the growing, showing, harvesting and storage of his specialty during a slide-illustrated presentation.

As part of its community service program, Thornhill and District Horticultural Society will offer a vegetable and gardening clinic in Heintzman House at 8 p.m. on two different nights, Monday, Feb. 28 and Monday, March 7.
