

It was quite an anniversary!!

Did you find it?

The pile-up above was just about the way things went for the Richmond Hill Legion Midgets at the annual midget tournament last week. The locals managed one win out of three games but it was just no go in the above final game with the Detroit Blades.

The final score saw Detroit winning by 2-0. Exit the Richmond Hill Legion boys.

Taking it in

They're all eyes at the 10th annual Richmond Hill International Midget hockey tournament. A total of 9,000 hockey bugs paid their way into the week long scoring binge. They went away happy.

MVP defenceman

Cornwall McDonald's Steve Smith gets the handshake from Ernie McMeekin as well as the Ronald J. Thorn trophy for being the most valuable defenceman in the tournament.

Nice smile, eh?

This lucky member of the grand champion runner-up Cornwall McDonalds gets the El Shamaly Shrine Club trophy plus a big

Hip, Hip, for us

It's not difficult to tell that the faces belong to the Toronto Young Nats who give vent to their feelings in a dressing ceremony after

Sunday's grand championship win over the Cornwall McDonald's at the 10th annual Richmond Hill International Midget Tournament. The Young Nats, who were a late entry, went undefeated in the tournament.

Heh, heh you missed

Cornwall's Raymond Lamarche drifts a hard but wide shot at Toronto Young Nats' goalie

Steve Knish in Sunday's championship wind-up . . . a commentary on Cornwall's luck.
