Employer of 2.5 million!

This man—John Smithyes of King—is certainly doing his share to alleviate the unemployment problem—in bees, that is! Two-and-a-half million of them help pollinate his 5000 dwarf apple trees every season, making it possible for customers to come and pick their own apples each fall. Smithyes has just been appointed director of the Ontario Farm Fresh Marketing Association. His number is 833-6698.

New service only infilling

Letter carrier service recently approved for Richmond Hill's Cadillac-Bair subdivision does not indicate a relaxation in government policy aimed at containing the growth of the civil service work force, according to Director John Aiken of the Toronto Metro Postal District.

Aiken explains the door-to-door service represents an in-filling of an area already served by letter carriers.

"This is not the inauguration of a new service in a new residential area," he said. He assured residents Canada Post will continue to evaluate similar situations and provide delivery service that is the most viable and economical.

Happy birthday!

An Irish spring medley of familiar songs, led by members of the Catholic Women's League of St. John's Church in Newmarket entertained the residents of York Manor at the monthly birthday party for May.

Margaret Ryan, president of the CWL and Reta Hollander accompanied the group on their washboards. Mrs. Sarah Mount (92) and Mrs. Edith Leary (91) blew out the candles on the birthday cake. President Jean McMurchy of the York Manor auxiliary pinned red rose corsages on the two ladies.

Other residents with May birthdays included Mabel Kerr, Elizabeth Meakins, Catherine Dey, Gertrude Andrew, Catherine Wright, John Evans, Margaret Robertson, Mrs. G. Sisler, Ethel Cryderman, Jane Butler, Constance Roadhouse, Thomas Scott, Thomas Reid, Charles Matcafe, Mary Ellis, Ann Sinclair, Violet MacNaughton, Mrs. Lyle Jarvis, John Lark, Clarence Dunn, Lorne Risebrough and Stan McLaughlin. The twenty-four birthday residents were given favours made of shells containing peppermint candies. These were made by the girl guides of Trinity United in Newmarket.

The York String Quartet performed at the Manor May 27, and Betty Gordon's dancing school will entertain with highlights from the spring show Wednesday, June 1.

Yvonne Tyssen of Oak Ridges has been employed to assist recreational director Bruce Lohnes during the summer.

Learn what taxes mean to business

If you operate a small business, you'll want to know about a business management seminar on taxation to be held at the Black Hawk Motor Inn in Richmond Hill Wednesday, June 22. Arranged by the Federal Business Development Bank's Management Services and the Richmond Hill Chamber of Commerce, the day is expected to attract 40-50 participants. The case study method will be used to examine the implications of taxation for a small business. The Bank's Management Services operates in three main spheres: management training, management counselling, and information. The information service provides details of approximately 100 federal government assistance programs. Further, a pamphlet series titled 'Minding your own Business' now covers 14 areas. Management counselling is provided by retired executives to businesses unable to afford experts on a full-time basis. Management training, as well as providing seminars on various subjects of interest, also provides management courses to provincial educational institutions for the owners and managers of small businesses.
