

Big pipe construction moving

Regional council last week received a report on the progress of the York-Durham

Sewage System, almost two years after an agreement was signed to approve its construction.

Stage 1 includes the interim expansion of six treatment plants; collector sewers in south Maple, south Richmond Hill, south-west Markham and Pickering, Ajax and Frenchman's Bay.

As well, it involves a trunk sewer from Dufferin Street to Squires Beach on the shore of Lake Ontario, and the first phase of the Duffin Creek Pollution Control Centre.

Plant expansions have been completed at Aurora, Newmarket and Frenchman's Bay.

At Unionville and Markham, plants are being expanded in two phases, the first of which is complete. It is estimated all expansions will be complete by mid-summer.

To date, the Maple, Leslie, Sandy Beach, and Highway 401 collectors have been completed, as well as 90 per cent of the North Don-Bayview Collector.

Tenders have been called for the construction of pumping centres at Liverpool Road and Bayly Street.

By the end of this year, all but the Richmond Hill and Central Duffin collectors will be under way or complete. This represents 16 miles of pipeline.

Final design work has been completed for Stage 1 of the Trunk Sewer (29.5 miles from the lake just east of the Pickering Nuclear Generating Station to Dufferin and Steeles in Vaughan. By midsummer, 42 per cent of this trunk will be under construction.

The rest will be complete by the fall of 1980.

Stage 1 of the Duffin Creek Pollution Control Centre, complete by early 1981, will handle 40 million gallons daily. The remaining sections will be completed gradually over the next 30 years.

All but 11 of 74 privately-owned properties on the centre site have been acquired. Four expropriations have been necessary for the whole system, which will involve 1,171 properties.

The report assured councillors good relations had been maintained with the public while the project has remained on schedule for its 1981 target date.
