

Travel, study are parts of this Rotary program

The Rotary Club of Richmond Hill is looking for people who want to further their education in different parts of the world.

Such people, men or women, will participate in the Rotary Foundation, and Rotary is willing to pay for it.

One girl who is on the Rotary program, is a temporary resident in Richmond Hill from Australia.

Liz Casey is furthering her studies at the University of Toronto, thanks to the Rotary Foundation.

In its programs, which are carried out with a practical and realistic approach, the Rotary Foundation seeks to promote understanding and good will among people of different nations.

An award recipient may be selected annually by each of the more than 350 Rotary districts.

The grant is for one year of academic study. Since the Foundation's objective is the furtherance of world wide understanding, each recipient is required to study in a country other than his own.

Each recipient must possess qualifications which enable him to serve as an "ambassador of good will".

Each must be a student of outstanding abilities. Through his appearances at Rotary functions and those of other groups, after returning home, he extends his Rotary-inspired concept of international understanding by sharing his own experience with many people in his home country, just as he did abroad.

Specifically, the person must:

- Have maintained high standards in his academic studies, technical field or actual teaching or journalistic experience and must show promise of distinguished achievement during his study as a Rotary Foundation award recipient.
- Demonstrate qualities of leadership, initiative, enthusiasm, adaptability, maturity, and seriousness of purpose.
- Be proficient at the time of application in the language of the study country and assigned institution.
- Be physically and mentally able to carry on a rigorous year of study and travel in another country.

Members of the Richmond Hill Rotary Club would appreciate the community's help in identifying candidates for these awards.

Information should be presented to the Rotary Foundation Chairman Ed Nokes.

He may be reached at 884-7441.

McConaghy may close

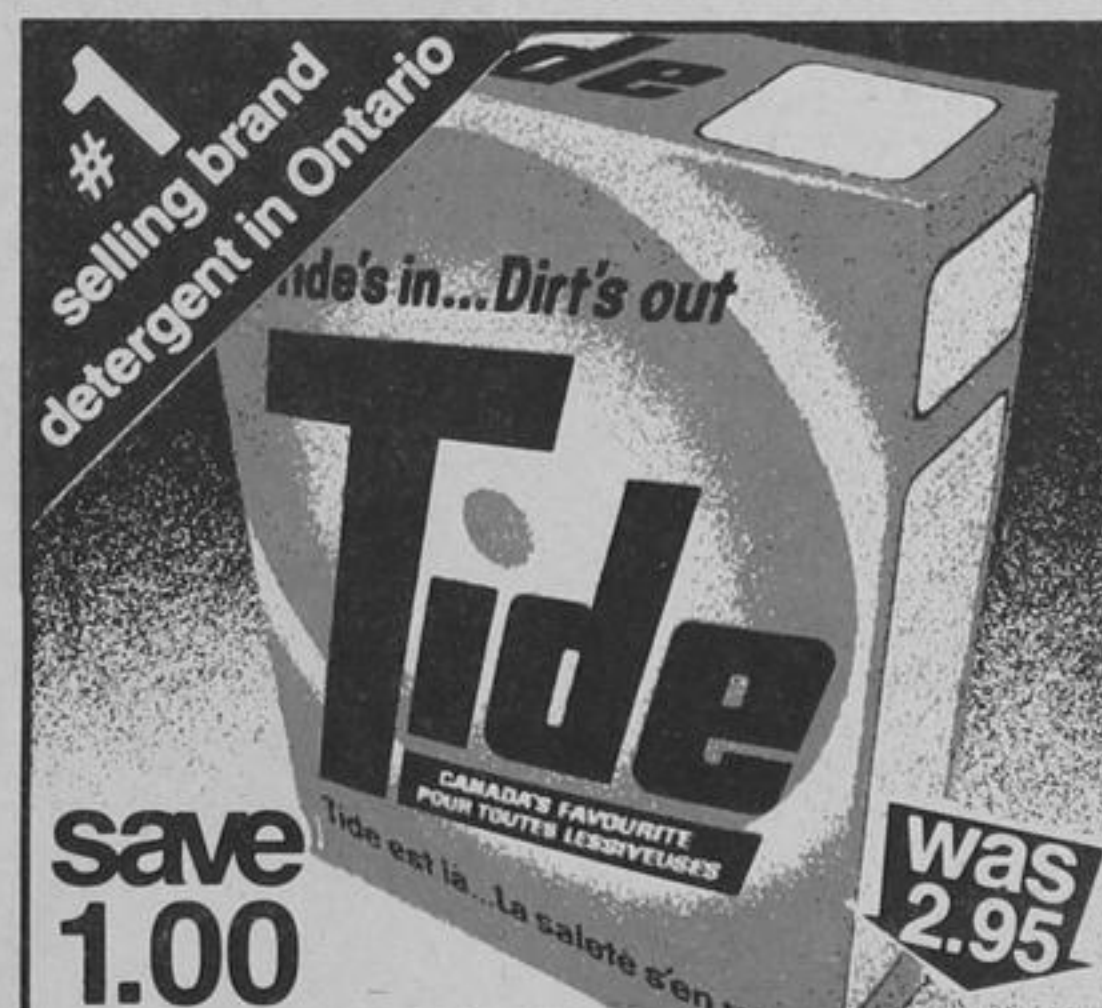

M. L. McConaghy Public School, 62 Yonge Street South in Richmond Hill, may be closed to cut down on taking children out of their neighborhoods by bus to fill up other schools.

Richmond Hill trustee, Bob Houghton, of York County Board of Education, chairman of a committee studying school facilities in the town, said that closing McConaghy would reduce extra classrooms available in the core area, which the Ministry of Education wants filled through bussing.

He said the committee has also recommended that all schools go from Kindergarten to grade 8, where possible, a move also favored by parents opposed to bussing.
