RECREATION FOR DISABLED ON
IN MAPLE
Transportation is one of the major problems faced by the craft, sports and social club started two weeks ago for the handicapped of York Region.
The turnout at Maple's
Joseph Gibson Public School is encouraging and the interest of those who have come out is high.
But there are others who would like to join in the only local club of its kind but without wheels,
they are out of luck.
Marty Shultz, with multiple sclerosis, is a member of the group who is confined to a wheelchair. She said in an interview last week that the ideal volunteer driver should not have any back problems and should preferably have a four
door car, as most
passengers need to be lifted in and out.
A driver would not have to sit through the entire Thursday 7 to 9 p.m.
session, she suggested.
One driver could take the passengers, while another could give them a lift home.
The club itself is
"opening a whole lot of new doors for people who are house bound or institution bound," said
Mrs. Shultz.
She feels herself that she is exceptionally lucky because she recently
moved into a condominium with special
rooms for crafts and
other activities.
But for many people
this is the only chance to get out and enjoy a social and craft evening.
The club has so far attracted a girl as young as 12 and other members
up to age 60.
Students from Seneca College are teaching the crafts, which include
everything from weaving
to pottery.
For the harder souls,
games of wheelchair
basketball are held in the gym.
The sports program
hopes to offer floor
hockey soon if a donation of sticks can be arranged.
A recreationist
provides relaxation type exercises for those who can't join in the other sports.
The program is a pilot project until Christmas.
After that, the joint organizers, Promoting the Realization of Opportunities for the Handicapped (PROD), March of Dimes and the York Region Special Needs Committee, hope to find service clubs who will be interested in providing vans and other assistance to the group.
At the moment, some van transportation is being provided by
Markham's Participation
House and The Villa
Hospital.
Any volunteers interested in providing rides or in hearing more about the program can call Tiki Papas at 851-0633 or Mardi Anderson at 881-0216.
