Smile for the photographer

They're not really giving the photographer a bad time. In fact, they're really showing him just how good they are. The three are all students of a theatre workshop class in Vaughan, conducted by actress Judith Elizabeth. Showing they can mug as well as anyone, are, left to right: Vanessa Grafi, 8, of Kleinburg; Heather Corcoran, 11, of Vaughan; and Elizabeth Mitchell of Kleinburg. Anyone interested in the classes, which are for all ages, can call Miss Elizabeth at 532-1298. (Photo by Bruce Hogg).

Entertainment

Canadian play to open in Aurora

A Canadian play will have its premiere in York Region, when Theatre Aurora will present "The Unreasonable Act of Julian Waterman" by Ron Taylor of Toronto, January 13-14; 18-21. Described as a "hilarious Comedy," the play takes place in an apartment building on Avenue Road in Toronto, in contemporary times. Richmond Hill will be well represented, with three members of the Curtain Club taking part. Veteran actor, George Jones, who started out as director, will play the title role of Julian Waterman. Jones stepped in when he was unable to cast the part. Gale Kendall will play opposite him, while Tony Durrant, the Curtain Club's resident lighting director, will transfer his

..... Aurora light skills in that department to the Factory Theatre stage. Also appearing will be Dave Duchesne of Theatre Aurora. Producer is Cy Buck. The club is also looking for a policeman, not to keep order, but to round out the cast. "The Unreasonable Act of Julian Waterman" was first performed at Edmonton's Citadel Theatre, with the second performance at the Gryphon Theatre in Barrie.

Playwright Taylor has also written The Door, and The Songwriter, both of which had their premiere at The Dell Theatre in Toronto. Taylor, who lives in Toronto, will be at the opening night performance.
