Marsh World

HERRING GULL (Larus argentatus) - These large gulls are about two feet in length and have a wingspread of almost five feet. They usually nest on islands in loose colonies, frequently accompanied by other species such as terns and cormorants. Herring Gulls are omnivorous feeders and at times prey on the eggs and young of other birds. They haunt garbage dumps as well as shores of lakes, rivers and marshes, feeding on dead fish and refuse. The young are a dark mottled brown color and require three years to attain plumage.
