A HOUSE or YOUR HOME?
When you are selling your property ask yourself what the purchaser is buying. Is he buying a house, or your home?
Your attitude toward the sale of your property can be a distinct advantage to you. Once you put your home on the market try to think of it as a purchaser would — as a house.
This should keep you in an objective frame of mind, allowing you to deal with the marketing and sale more effectively.
On the other hand, if you feel you are selling your home, you might place yourself in the position where you can be offended. If upset by the offered price, or some special item requested in the offer, it's possible to loose not only your objectivity, but also the sale you want.
A buyer is not likely to place any value on your memories, sentiment or labour of love you have in a house. He may not even use it in the same way you have used it.
Your reasons for selling can be varied and usually easily apparent to you. Your feelings about the house at the time a sale is possible, might sneak up on you and distract your practical approach to re-viewing an 'offer to purchase'. Difficult though it may sometime be — when you are selling a house; keep and treasure your memories for yourself — and offer for sale — A HOUSE!

DON'T KNOCK COMPROMISE
Looking for a new house? Then probably what you desire and the going price for such a dream house are mutually exclusive. There is no perfect house, and very few families can afford everything they want. This means compromise.
You might have to trade off certain desirable features to get a house with other more important ones. For example, you may find yourself giving up a short commuting distance to get a house with more land or vice versa. You could give up a family room, say, for a second bath — then add the family room you really want later on, when you can better afford it.
Make a list of your top priorities, such as location, schools, number of bedrooms. This will do double duty. It will steer you to the house that comes closest to what you want now, and one that will also satisfy your probable future needs.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at EMERALD ISLE REAL ESTATE LTD. 10212B Yonge St. Richmond Hill. Phone: 884-2377. We're here to help!
