Architect's concept

A bird's eye view of the architect's conception of the new Tri-Bell Club, now under construction at Bathurst Street north of Highway 7.

Swank Tri-Bell Club to open in October

For members of the Tri-Bell Club, a five-year dream is just coming to a happy conclusion.

And for local residents, the fun is just beginning. The plush, new family sports and recreational club on the old Wilson farm, Bathurst Street north of Highway 7, should be ready to open by October, five years after its planners first began to toy with the idea.

The 41-year-old club has been located in Metro Toronto since the beginning. Now, with the impending move to the huge new quarters, it can expand its membership to 500 families from its present 325.

The airy new dining room with seating for 400 will offer a view of the ravine park, dedicated to the town of Richmond Hill by the club.

For tennis types, there will be ten outdoor courts, several of them lit for night playing, and four indoor ones, as well as racquetball and handball courts and squash courts.

On the social side, lounges, card and billiard rooms are available and areas for children have been set aside so they can have their own recreational space.

The health club offers an outdoor pool, exercise room, saunas and whirlpools.

Executive director Tom Kays says the club hopes to attract new members to enjoy its facilities. A lot of these new members will come from the local area, he anticipates.

And as well as attracting local members, the Tri-Bell Club will be attracting local employees, many of them students who will be able to work for the club during the peak season, he feels.

For further information about the club, membership, or its facilities, contact Mr. Kays at 667-8000.

Workers reject mediator's offer by narrow vote

The union membership rejected a provincial labor dispute at Arvin Automotive Ltd. in mediator's report in the Concord last week by a narrow margin.

From the Legion

FROM THE LEGION
By JAMES HAGGART
Public Relations Officer,
Richmond Hill Legion

If you see some of the members of our ladies' organizations and our branch limping about this week, they may be suffering from a severe case of kitchentitis.

Hockey Tournament Week is a busy time for many of our members, and especially those who donate their time to feed hungry hockey players. Last week, close to 2,800 meals were served from our kitchen.

To all those who volunteered and participated in any way to make the tournament a success, we owe a debt of gratitude.

Five lucky members of our Air Cadet Squadron will be going on a para rescue course in June, thanks to the generosity of five of our members.

Cadets winning the scholarships will be selected by merit and each one will complete seven static line jumps.

After completing a first-aid course, they will be eligible to wear the para rescue badge from the Department of National Defence, and will be available for para rescue service to local police and other organizations.

Our thanks to Vern Dynes, Elgin Barrow, Ed Bailey, Tom Burrell and Ken Ham for underwriting the cost of these scholarships.

Another big weekend is coming up for members of Branch 375. On Friday Night (May 31), the Colour Party is sponsoring their big dance in the Thornhill Community Centre from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The Rhonda Valley Showband will provide terrific dance music.

Tickets are $10 per couple and are available from members of the Colour Guard, or you may phone 889-3707.

On Sunday, April 2, the Jazz Appreciation Club is presenting another in their series of dinners-dances.

This time around, the Louisiana Joymakers will play some beautiful old tunes for dancing. Music is from 2:30 to 6 p.m.

Price is only $3.50 each, which includes a full-course roast beef dinner. This has to be the bargain of the century. See you at the Legion . . .

Local 8341, United Steelworkers of America, turned down the proposed eight, eight and 8.5 per cent wage increase in a three-year contract by a vote of 42 to 36.

The local was locked out last January 31 after rejecting a company offer.

Bruce Hazlewood, the union's chief negotiator, said the mediator's report contained only one half per cent more, and the employees were not going back to work for that after almost two months on the picket line.

The Concord plant manufactures exhaust pipes as original equipment for the major American car companies.

There were other clauses in the mediator's report that Hazlewood, a Richmond Hill resident, objected to, including a clause that employees not recalled to work within one week following ratification will be considered laid off.

Nomination meeting set

The York North Federal Liberal Association will hold a nomination meeting Tuesday, April 4, at the Thornhill Community Centre.

The meeting gets underway at 8 p.m.

CANADA PENSION PLAN CHANGES.

Better Benefits For Some.

Divorce or Annulment.

CPP pension credits earned by a husband and wife during marriage may be divided equally between them if the marriage ends in divorce or annulment after January 1, 1978. This ensures that an asset accumulated through the efforts of both spouses while they were married can be shared equally by both when the marriage is dissolved.

Retroactive Payment of Retirement Benefits.

Retirement benefits may now be paid retroactively for a period of up to 12 months to contributors who had attained age 65 but who are under age 70 and who have retired from the labour force.

Post-Mortem Benefits.

Applications for retroactive benefits (i.e. up to 12 months) can now be made on behalf of a deceased person, in cases where a contributor qualified, but failed to apply, before death. Families or estates will be entitled to receive benefits in such cases.

Elimination of Reductions in Children's Benefits.

Orphans' and disabled contributors' children's benefits are no longer reduced for the fifth and subsequent children. All children in a family, regardless of its size, are eligible to receive equal benefits.

These important amendments to the Canada Pension Plan came into force on January 1st, 1978. If you have any questions, contact the Canada Pension Plan office nearest you:
