Rotary's last charter member leaving district

The Rotary Club of Richmond Hill was forced to say "adieu" last Tuesday to the last remaining charter member of the club.

Ralph Butler, who has served the Rotary Club in every office and achieved 100 per cent attendance of the weekly meetings over a 26-year span, is closing up shop and moving from the community.

The love and respect Ralph has earned shone through clearly in the large number of people attending Tuesday's party.

He listened to the back handed tributes of a roasting carried out by Don Plaxton, Doug Allen, Ed Nokes and Dennis Stainer and the sincere statements of Gord McIntyre who praised his reliability, humility and integrity.

"When he said he would — it was; he could listen to your problems and never mention his own; and, he holds to high principles in everything he does," Mr. McIntyre said.

Master of Ceremonies for the event was Joe Horvat.

A number of gifts were presented to Ralph and his wife, Isobel, along with the best wishes of the Club.

The evening was hosted by the Halliday's of Sugar Maple Lane.

She's researching old Hill buildings

Last Friday, Nancy Friday finished two summers of researching and documenting old buildings in Richmond Hill.

The Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee Energy is subject of play at Park

A play in Town Park, today, July 5, will show what happens when Dr. Krankheit and two clowns try to sell conventional sources of energy.

The play, entitled Dr. Krankheit's Energy Machine Show, is being put on by Eneraction Theatre, a federally funded theatre group designed to bring public awareness to the energy problem.

Five members in the cast have put on the same play in parks in Toronto, and Pear Brask, dramaturgist for the program, said, "It had good response. Kids love it and it's great for adults, also."

Richmond Hill Community Conservation Centre is the local sponsoring group for the show.

The show begins at 1:30 p.m. outside in the park at Church Street and Lorne Avenue and will run for about one-half hour.

The Liberal

hired Nancy through a provincial program called "Experience '78", designed to offer young people a learning experience, "one which will complete their education, and aid in the making of career decisions".

Nancy who holds an honours degree in art and history from Queen's University was responsible for taking photographs of the older buildings within the town, making a brief architectural description for filing at the library.

David Fayle, chairman of LACAC said these pictures and descriptions will form the basis of LACAC's recommendations to council when applications are received for demolition permits.

Dr. Fayle said he felt LACAC was fortunate to be able to hire Nancy for a second year.

"As she is familiar with the area, we can build on her past experience," he said.

Nancy said she really enjoyed the experience. "I learned a lot about the history of Richmond Hill," she said.

In August Nancy will leave for a two-year stay in Africa with a program called "Volunteers International Christian Service" where she will teach sewing and crafts in a school near Sierra Leona.

Donut was flag for Canada Day

Evelyn Hill wanted to do something for Canada Day.

Ms. Hill is manageress of Country Style Donuts on Woodbine Avenue and got the idea of cutting a donut in the shape of a flag waving in the breeze.

The "donut", measuring 20 inches long and a foot wide was iced with white icing and because there was some difficulty getting the proper color of red icing, only the outline of the leaf was red.

It was displayed in the store's window on Canada Day.

The "donut" was never sold although "a lot of people wanted a piece when they saw it but it wasn't really of saleable quality" says Ms. Hill.
