

The Scrap Book.

Here Wit in bright effulgence glows, With Wisdom joined, through rhyme and prose, And both unite their charms in one, To form the sage and humorous pun.

DROLL EPITAPHS.

Dr. Pettigrew has published, in London, a collection of epitaphs. Here is a droll one: "Two sweeter babes you ever did see Than God amity could give, But they were not taken we regret fits, And here they lyas had as mits."

On Robt Trollop, Architect of the Exchange and Town Hall of Newcastle: "Here lies Robert Trollop, Who made you stones roll up, When death took his soul up, His body filled this hole up."

On Ann Jennings, the mother of an immense family: "Some have children—some have none, Here lies the mother of twenty-one."

In Oxfordshire, Dr. Pettigrew has found: "Here lies the body of John Eldred, At least he will be here when he is dead; But now at this time he is alive; The fourteenth of August sixty-five."

In the churchyard at Canborough, in the North Riding of Yorkshire, is the following: "Nigh this place lies four children dear, In their full strength, nigh twenty year; And not exceeding twenty-one, The fairest flower it is soon gone. Therefore, dear friends, lament no more, We are not lost but gone before, In hopes of a joyful resurrection."

An editor down South says he never dotted an i but once in his life, and that was in a fight with a cotemporary. To make hens lay perpetually—hit them a well directed blow on the head.

We saw a gentleman a few days since, who was buying all the woodpeckers' scalps he could find. He will take them so California to trade with the Indians, where they are used as money, and are worth about $5 each.—Ill. Baptist.

Woman is like ivy—the more you are ruined the closer she clings to you. A vile old bachelor adds: Ivy is like woman—the closer it clings to you the more you are ruined. Poor rule that don't work both ways. Knock down the bachelor!

The following is a specimen of sharp shooting between a coquette and her lover: "You men are angels when you woo the maid, But devil when the marriage vow is made."

The lover, not to be outdone, replies as follows:— "The change, dear girl, is easily forgiven— We find our selves in hell instead of heaven."

"Arrah, Teddy, an' wasn't your name Teddy O'Byrne before ye left our Ireland?" "Sure it was my da's name."

"But, my jewel, why thin do ye add the S, and call it Teddy O'Brynes, now?" "Why ye spalpeen, haven't I been married since I ken to Ameriky? and a ye so ignorant of grammatics that ye don't know when one thing is added to another, it becomes a plural?"

The origin of wealth is in a moral feeling—self-denial. "Here is something I will not consume or throw away—I will take care of it, store it up for the future use of myself or others." The man who first said and acted thus, laid the foundation of a virtue upon earth. The savings of each man are a diffusive blessing to all, and therefore, in so far, frugality is a thing which all may and ought to applaud.

I am an old fellow says Cowper in one of his letters to Hardis, but I had once my dancing days as you have now; yet I never could find that I could learn half as much of a woman's character by dancing with her as by conversing with her at home, when I could observe her behavior at the table, at the fireside, and in all the trying situations of domestic life. We are pleased; but she is the good woman who waits not the fiddle to sweeten her.

I always feel more at home when I have got the ladies about me. It is on their account, and on account of their children, that I have denounced the disgraceful system of getting drunk at the alehouse and leave their children starving at home. But, women! you have a duty to perform, and mind you do it. Make your homes agreeable—make the attractions of home so great that your husbands will not wish to go to the alehouse.—Earl of Albatrante.

Charles Dickens gives, in one of his letters, an interesting glimpse of his state of mind while composing one of his recent stories. "I have been beset in many ways; but I shut myself up for one month, close and tight, over my little Christmas book, The Chimes. All my affections and passions got tangled and knotted up in it, and I became haggard as a murderer, long before I wrote the end. When I had done, I fled to Venice, to regain the composure I had lost."

A Gift of one Thousand Copies.

RUSSELL & RICHARDSON have in press a work entitled THE MUSICIAN'S GUIDE;

Edited by Nathan Richardson, author of the Modern School for the Piano Forte, which recently took the first Medal, and is so highly recommended by Thalberg, D. Reychock, Jewell, D. Mason, Wm. Mason, and others, as being superior to all other instruction books published.

The Musician's Guide will be ready this month. The engraving of some of the most important plates is the cause of a delay. It is a large work of 56 pages, containing many beautiful engravings and a descriptive index to the ideas of over 60 different composers of music. It is an invaluable book for teachers of music, amateurs, and all players and singers.

Desiring of making a rapid introduction of this work, we are induced to GIVE AWAY the first edition of ONE THOUSAND COPIES to people interested in music, and we will FREE-FAY THE POSTAGE.

N. B.—Only one copy will be sent to the same address. The work will be sent in the same order that the addresses are received.

If you will certainly get a copy FREE of all EXPENSES, by sending your name and address, without delay, to RUSSELL & RICHARDSON, Musical Publishers, Boston.

To FORTRESS.—Russell & Richardson will send you Two Dollars' worth of their latest Musical Publications and the Musician's Guide, without charge, if you will give the above advertisement (including this offer), one insertion in your paper. May, 1857. g4-1w.

Advertisement for Canada Type Foundry, featuring a list of types and prices: 'Canada Type Foundry. REMOVED TO ST. THOMAS ST. IN DEBERY'S BUILDINGS, MONTREAL. THE Proprietors of this Establishment beg to inform the Printers of Canada, that they have now manufactured and ready for delivery, a large quantity of Small Pica, Long Primer, Brevier and Brevier, of Scotch type, which they will guarantee cannot be surpassed by any Foundry upon this continent for durability and appearance. They have also on hand a choice assortment of various kinds of Ornamental Type. The prices at which these and other types are sold at the Canada Type Foundry will be found at least 30 per cent. less than they could be purchased previous to its establishment. It is therefore hoped that the Printers of Canada will show their appreciation of the advantages it holds out, by bestowing upon it a fair share of their patronage, in return for which the proprietors pledge themselves to leave no means untried to give ample satisfaction. Patients mark the reduction in the price of type since this Foundry was opened; and bear in mind that a greater reduction depends upon your own. Our motto is—supply the trade with type of such quantities and at such prices as will prevent the necessity of patronizing foreign manufacturers. SEARS' PICTORIAL WORKS.

Contents, and a complete Index. By R. T. TRALL, M. D. Published by FOWLER & WELLS, NEW YORK.

In the plan of the work, the want and necessity of the people have been taken into view. While almost every top of interest in the department of Anatomy, Physiology, Pathology, Hygiene, and Therapeutics is fully presented, the practical utility is always put prominently forward. The prevailing errors, conceits, and whims of the day and age are exposed and refuted; the theories and hypotheses upon which the popular drug-pedlars are predicated are controverted; and the only and adequate mode of the latter clearly demonstrated. The following is a brief analysis of its contents:

HISTORY OF MEDICINE: History of Bathing; History of Medicated Baths; ANATOMY. Illustrated by One Hundred and Twenty appropriate engravings.

PHYSIOLOGY. Illustrated, comprising the Rationale of Muscular Action; the Nervous Influence; Philosophy of Mind; Miasmatic Pneumonia; the Special Secretions; the Functions of Digestion, Circulation, Respiration, Absorption, Nutrition, Secretion, Excretion, Calcification, Temperaments, the Races of Man and Theory of Population.

HYGIENE, embracing all the relations of Air, Light, Drink, Food, Temperature, Exercise, Sleep, Clothing, Bathing, and the Passions, to the growth, development of Body and Mind, the Preservation of Health, and the attainment of Longevity.

DIETETICS, comprising the Bible, Antiquities, Physiological, Chemical and Experimental Evidence concerning the natural Dietetic Character of Man.

HYDROPATHIC COOKERY, with Special directions for the Preparation of food.

DIETARIES, containing the Therapeutic distinction of diet for invalids.

PHILOSOPHY OF WATER CURE, with illustrated explanations of all the water-cure appliances, a Philosophical Exposition of the 'modus operandi' of water treatment, and the true rationale of drug-treatment.

The Nature, Symptoms, and Treatment of all known diseases are examined, the ill success of drug-practice exposed, and the proper Medicine recommended and specified.

THE TREATMENT OF SURGICAL DISEASES. Illustrated, and directions for the minor operations given.

THE Management of Lying-in-Women, and the treatment of Children, &c. The work is intended to be a plain, intelligible and sufficient guide for domestic practice, or home treatment, in all ordinary diseases embracing the whole range of subjects connected with the Philosophy of Life, the preservation of health, and the treatment of diseases.

This great work may be had in an large volume, bound in library style. Pages, pre-paid by mail to any Post-Office, in the United States or Canada, only THREE DOLLARS. All letters and orders should be directed as follows: FOWLER & WELLS, No. 362, Broadway, New York.

Agents in every neighborhood will be supplied in packages of a dozen or more copies, by Express or by Freight. Single copies, by mail—10 cts. per copy, should have a copy.
