

United Way could reach $300,000

Robert A. Shea, 1978 General Campaign Chairman, United Way of York Region, this week released his final report in connection with the successful 1978 campaign.

Mr. Shea pointed out that "From the outset our goals were, first, to create greater awareness and understanding of United Way and the services of its participating human care service agencies; and second, to produce a healthy percentage increase over last year's results."

"To date," he said, "we can report raising $270,000 (an increase of 28 percent over last year) with a healthy prospect of achieving $300,000 before the start of 1979's campaign later this month. This is the largest amount ever raised in York Region."

Costs directly attributable to raising these contributions were less than $16,000 according to the General Campaign Chairman.

"In the areas of awareness and understanding," Shea reported, "I am convinced that the raising of the general level of caring and concern is the second major accomplishment of the 1978 campaign."

He was particularly appreciative of companies who provided loaned executives for the campaign. These included Allstate Insurance of Canada Ltd., Bell Canada, Consumers' Gas Co., Government of Ontario, Imperial Oil Limited, Macro Communications Ltd. and Simpsons, Ltd.

Mr. Shea also reported "that the residential campaign took the appeal into 45,000 homes in the region."

He said, "this in itself caused new recognition of the services and needs of the agencies. In many cases door to door distribution of a specially designed kit was supported by high school students."

"Additionally," he continued, "we received tremendous support from Scouts Canada through local Venturers, Cubs and Scout packs." Recognition of time and support from many senior citizens in York Region, notably in Markham and Richmond Hill, was also commended.

Organization of three industrial divisions, one each in South Markham, Central York and Vaughan, was cited as "a good beginning" in these three areas.

Mr. Shea said, "this year's campaign expanded the United Way method of donating through the system of voluntary payroll deductions."

He went on, "in many larger companies with a well developed sense of corporate responsibility to the community, employee charitable campaigns have been established and the notion of sharing through payroll deduction is legitimized and expected."

Shea was particularly grateful for efforts made and shared by groups who comprise York Region's educational family. These included the Board of Trustees, Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation District 11, York County Elementary Teachers Association of Federations, and CUPE locals.

"I am particularly thankful at the results of our first ever canvass of the participating agency family — volunteers and staff — in support of the campaign. We had a high participation rate from virtually all of our agencies."

Discussing news media the Campaign Chairman was complimentary to press, radio and cable TV operators in the region whom he cited as "providing the most complete and helpful coverage of our efforts in the three year history of the fund."

"Such coverage," he observed, "doesn't just happen. It is the result of dynamic, community minded editors, publishers and radio and cable operators."

Shea acknowledged especially contributions from the professional community in York Region. He had a special word of thanks to response from physicians in the area.

Special accolades were directed to Family Trust Corporation, Mr. Shea's own company, its 300 employees and the volunteer Campaign Treasurer provided by the company as a loaned executive.

"The United Way in York Region", Mr. Shea's report concluded, "is still in its formative stages, both in terms of its ability to raise funds and from the standpoint of the number of its participating agencies.

From a standing start in 1976 (and a campaign that raised $186,000) to the achievement of nearly $300,000 in 1978 is a magnificent step forward. The residents and industries of York Region who shared so generously should feel more than a tinge of pride."

No serious holiday fires

Richmond Hill Fire Department has not had to respond to a serious fire this holiday season.

There have been a few chimney fires, and these are expected at this time of the year, when people use fireplaces more frequently, and especially if Christmas wrappings and other paper is burned in this manner.

One minor house fire was recorded at 7 Fairview Avenue, Richmond Hill. The cause of the blaze, which originated in a bedroom, is believed to be careless smoking. Richmond Hill firefighters were able to contain the blaze, and the damage is not expected to go above $1,500.

St. Robert's school needs addition

St. Robert's High School in Thornhill is growing at such a tremendous clip it needs a $725,000 second-storey addition to accommodate more students next September.

After reporting growth patterns last week, The Liberal learned application has been made to expand the school.

But like most capital allocations for school buildings or additions, there's a hold-up in the funding.

Since St. Robert's is a private school, it doesn't qualify for provincial grants from the Ministry of Education. Responsibility for such funding belongs to the Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation.

So far, an application has been made for the construction of 16 classrooms, a staff room and washrooms for the school, to the RCEC.

The York Separate Board (which shares the building for its elementary school at St. Robert's is expecting a reply to the request by January 20.

The bottom line is if the reply doesn't come, construction can't begin and this year's 318 Grade 10 students will have to be cut to 75 for next September.

Even if RCEC decided to make the funds available, the project wouldn't likely begin until sometime in March. It is far too late to start calling for tenders and then have a firm arrange for sub-contracting.

To have the project completed by September it would have to be done using a system called "project management", assuming money is available.

However, with project management, you never know how much a job is going to cost until it is virtually completed. Each stage is done on the fly, under the auspices of a manager, thereby skirting the time-consuming tender arrangements.

The board is sitting on pins and needles waiting for RCEC's decision because Grade 10 enrolment hits its seven-year peak at 395 in September, 1979.

School selects its princesses

By LEHNAZ PESTONJI Bayview Secondary School ended 1978 with one of the largest Christmas assemblies ever produced at the school.

Unlike past assemblies, technical problems did not plague the performers.

The high point of the program was the Bayview stage band, which performed Christmas Carols and later entertained the school with a lively medley of popular television themes.

1979 started off with great news for Sandra Kaczmarczyk.

She won a Pioneer Stereo for selling the most candles for Bayview's fund raising campaign.

FINALISTS
Bayview's five "Snow Princesses" are Lorna Campbell (Year I); Kathy Snowdon (Year II); Terry White (Year III); Diane Eldridge

(Year IV); and Terry Davis (Year V).

One of these girls will be chosen to represent Bayview Secondary School and may eventually win the title of Richmond Hill "Snow Queen".

SPORTS
In sports, Bayview had a tremendously successful weekend.

On Friday, January 5, Basketball was the name of the game. A triple-header was played in the auditorium against Thornlea Secondary School.

Bayview won all three games by scores of 40-38 (Midgets); 42-36 (Juniors); and 54-43 (Seniors).

The Bayview Wrestling team proved their weight in gold Saturday, January 6 at the Thorold High School invitational.

Dick Charge, Brad McKenzie and Mehernosh Pestonji all placed first in their respective classes.
