

York Regional Police Briefs

ALL THAT GLITTERS

Nina Saltzberg of Lauraleaf Road, Thornhill, may decide to depend on a safe deposit box for protecting her valuables.

Last Monday, someone gained entry into her house through a basement window and made off with $12,600 worth of gold and jewelry.

Police are still investigating the crime.

LIQUID SOUND

When a young woman was asked to leave the Disco at the Sherwood Tavern in Markham last Friday evening, she became angry and poured a quantity of beer over the sound system.

Police have charged Elaine Heather Berndt, 18, of Gladiator Road, Markham and she will appear in court February 13.

HAVE SOUND WILL TRAVEL

A Thornhill man has been arrested and charged with break, enter and theft after police found stereo equipment belonging to Ro-Bar Electronics of Thornhill.

The equipment taken is valued at $4,000. Charged with the offence is Patrick James McGovern, 18, of Inverlochy Boulevard.

SETTING UP HOUSE

The Glenshields Golf Club on Dufferin Street, Concord, is missing about $1,300 in furniture after someone broke into the premises and took some chesterfields.

AROSY WORLD

York Regional Police Drug Squad has been busy in the last week, and their efforts paid off in several arrests.

Two Richmond Hill men have been charged with possession of marijuana and are due to appear in court January 30.

Charged are Philip Lloyd Queen, 27, of Carrville Road and Patrick Clifford Watts, 26, of the same address.

In another raid, three Markham residents have been charged with possession of hashish oil. Charged are Thomas Bing Yip, 28, Richard Bruce Vaughan, 16, and Jacqueline Yip, 23, all of Thatchers Millway.

Court date has been set for February 13.

PARTY TIME

Someone broke into the Pop Shoppe on Steeles Avenue West, Thornhill and the store is missing some property.

Missing are 10 cases of pop and a stereo AM-FM receiver.

STALLING TACTICS

Practical jokes can sometimes be expensive as Knappett's Landscaping in Richmond Hill has found out.

One of Knappett's bulldozers was damaged to the extent of $4,000 when someone put sand in the hydraulic system and engine of the machine which was parked on a lot in East Gwillimbury.

AIRPORT DRUGS

From information received from York Regional Police, the RCMP Drug squad, at Toronto International Airport last week, charged three people with importing cannabis resin and possession of cannabis for the purpose of trafficking.

Charged by the RCMP are Paul Kenneth Thomson, 21, of Inverlochy Boulevard, Thornhill; Donna Marie Ricketts, 18, of Romfield Circuit, Thornhill; and Charles Edward Scott, 19, of Port Bolster.

PHONY CHEQUES

York Regional Police have made an arrest for four counts of bank fraud.

The Bank of Nova Scotia in Oak Ridges and the Toronto Dominion Bank in Stouffville were victimized and a Richmond Hill man has been charged.

Charged with four counts of bank fraud is James Edward Turner, 21, of Marybay Crescent, Richmond Hill.

CAR THEFT

When you rent a car and don't return it, you sometimes get charged with theft as a man found out last week.

A car was rented from Wilsand Holdings Limited, Richmond Hill, and it was not returned. Police were notified.

Charged with theft and possession of stolen goods valued at more than $200 is John Gordon Duguid, 51, of Inverlochy Boulevard, Thornhill. He will appear in court February 5.

PHONE TAKES FLIGHT

When people get angry, they sometimes throw things.

This happened at the Summitview Gardens Restaurant on Yonge Street in Richmond Hill last week, when two people had an argument with the manager.

In the heat of the discussion a telephone was thrown at the bar causing $50 damage.

Two men have been charged with mischief to private property. They are Jed A. Matthews, 25, of Maple Grove Avenue, Oak Ridges; and Scott Louis Hardie of Gormley.

The two men will appear in court February 12.

COMMON ASSAULT

A Richmond Hill man has been charged with common assault after he became involved in an argument with two others at The Richmond Inn last week.

Charged with the offence is Claude Paul Quintile, 35, of May Avenue, Richmond Hill.

York approves six % raises

York Region's chief administrative officer just received a raise along with all other non-union personnel.

An across-the-board six per cent increase in salaries was approved by regional council at a closed session three weeks ago.

In addition, merit pay increases previously disallowed by the Anti-Inflation Board, were reinstated 11 days after AIB controls ended.

All employees were limited to a $1,500 salary hike in any one year.

Chief administrative officer Jack Rennie is now making $53,739, according to the region's own list. Solicitor Ted Oakes makes $45,529; health and social services commissioner and medical officer of health Dr. Owen Slingerland, $48,935; engineering commissioner Robert Hodgson, $40,957; treasurer John Hlynski, $38,884; planning commissioner Hershel Weinberg, $40,153; and the regional clerk, $35,034.

The grade structure which took nearly two years to negotiate, puts all the non-union jobs of regional employees into 19 categories and then assigns a bottom, middle and top figure for each one. The system is estimated to cost $69,000 to implement.

The chief administrative officer is in the top category with a salary starting at $45,627, with a mid-point of $50,697 and maximum of $55,767. The grade structure goes all the way down to level one, starting at $9,979.
