

Wednesday, February 14, 1979

Carnival a cool success

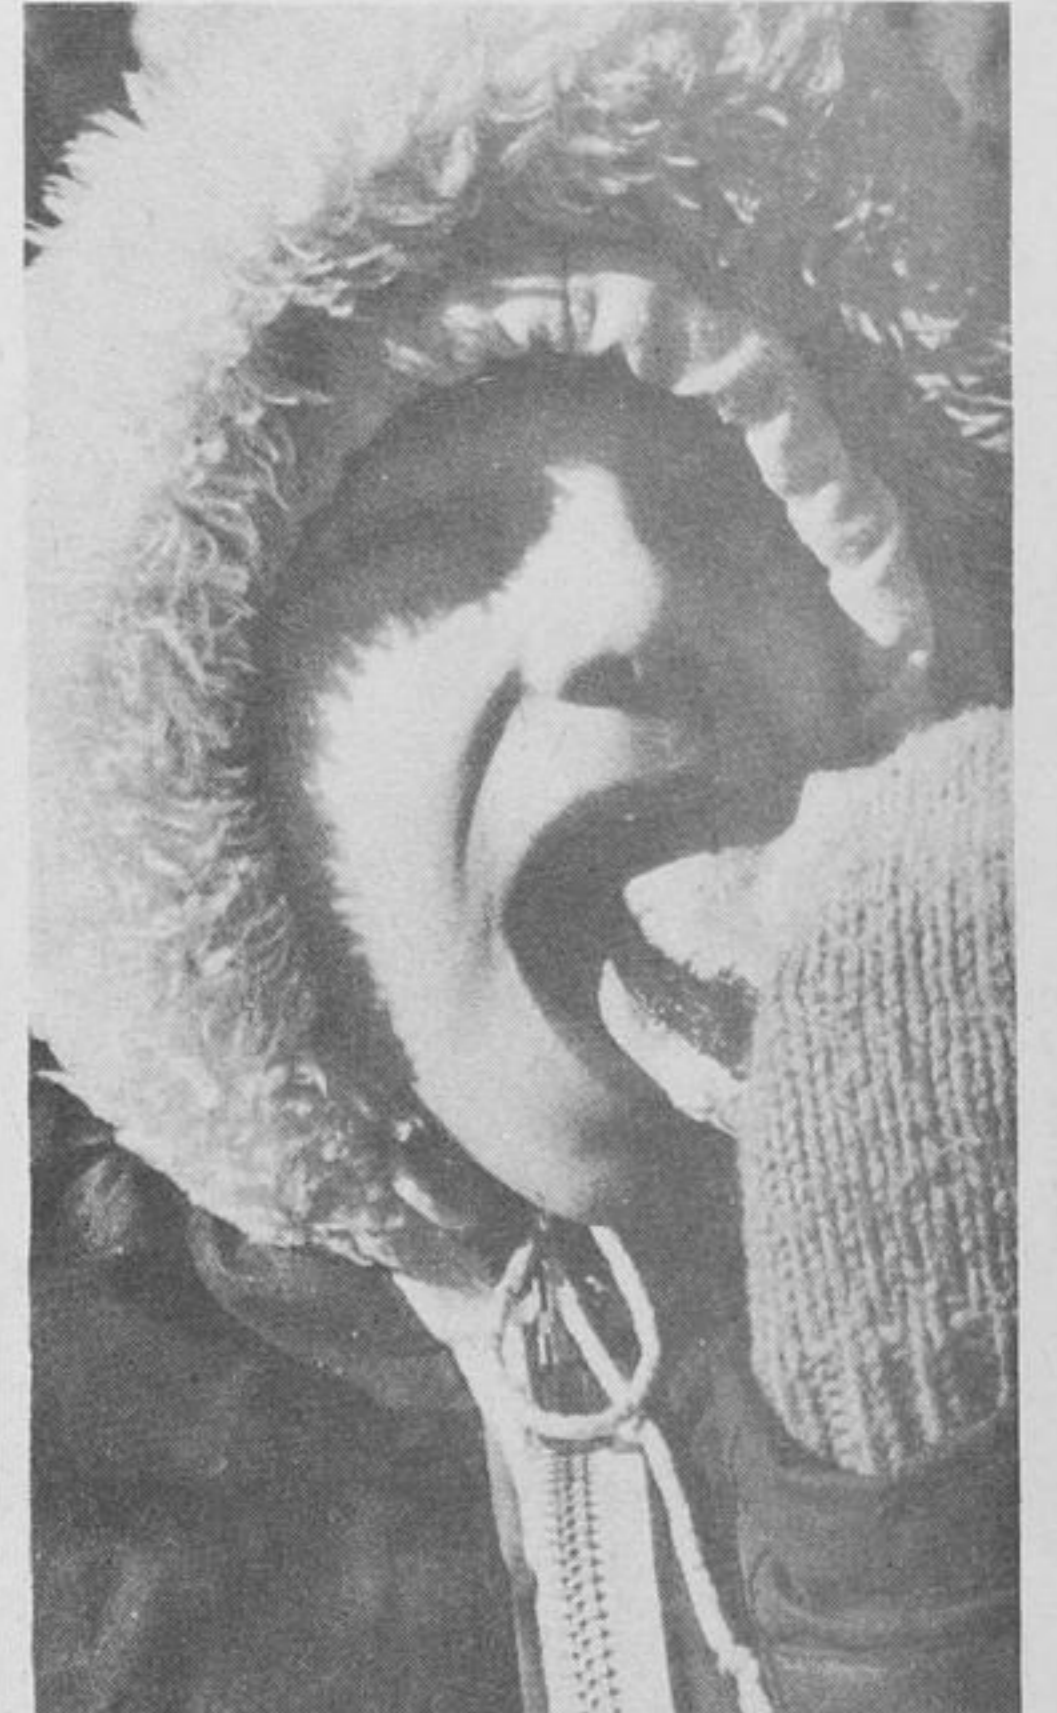

Lori McDowell looks like she agrees with the judge's decision for the new carnival queen.

Lori is a grade 13 student at Richmond Hill High School.

One of the few warm spots at the carnival was where Ken Robbins and Lloyd Marphy flipped 'burgers.

Seven year old Jennifer Poole of Zelda Crescent. Crescent isn't giving this hamburger a chance to freeze.

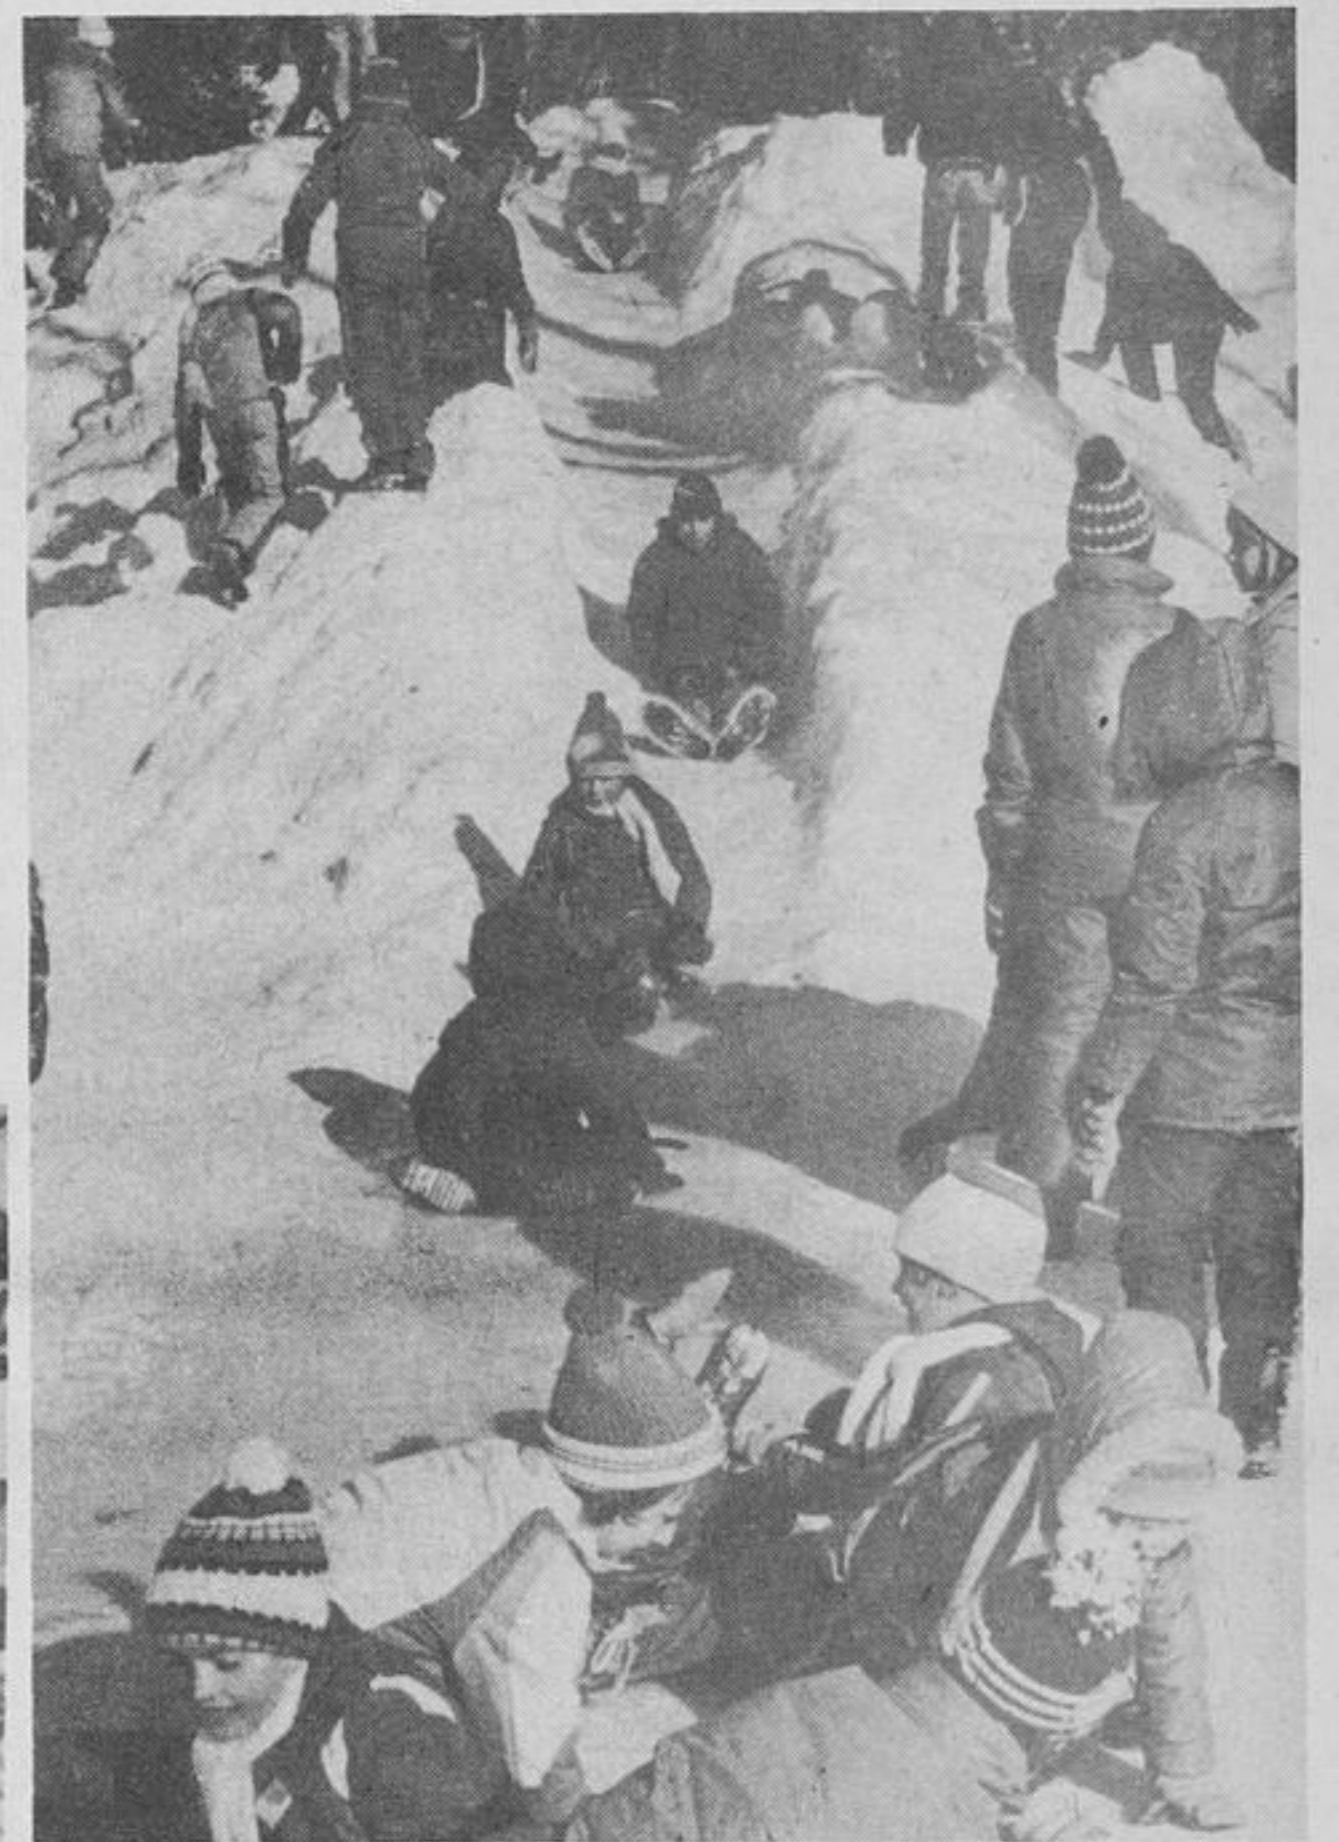

The weather was bright and cold just what the Doctor ordered. This crowd gathered around the log-sawing contest Saturday afternoon.

They seem to want to make sure there was enough wood cut to fend off the cold.

If you think you had to walk a long way to get to the carnival Jim Greg and Ina Marshall had to travel over half a mile "Straight down!" and they are smiling about it.

These guys like going down too.

All aboard the Polar Bear Express.

It looks like Danny McVean of Pugsley and Larry Donofrio also of Pugsley are joining this ice frog for lunch. They are the lunch. But don't fear it was so cold the frog couldn't catch them.

Bzzzzzzzzzz

Log sawing isn't as easy as it looks. It took Dawn Tucker 30 seconds to cut through this log.

Sasha gets a scratch under the chin from Sandy MacMillan of Rosemar Gdns.

Photos by Bruce Hogg