Volunteer bureau does double duty

Richmond Hill Volunteer Bureau is doing double duty these days. Since its inception in January of 1979 the Volunteer Bureau has been recruiting volunteers to help about 45 agencies in the area.

Last week the Volunteer Co-ordinator, Sharen Smith said she took people and information from a number of agencies needing special summer help, into the three local high schools hoping to let students know there were alternatives available if they did not have a summer job.

Posters were set up in the halls of each school and booths displayed areas where certain agencies needed special volunteer help this summer.

Almost 100 students registered for these volunteer jobs as a result of Miss Smith's idea.

The most popular agencies were the Ontario Humane Society, the Villa Hospital, the York Region Y Day Camp and a day camp for the York Central Association for the Mentally Retarded, she said.

Miss Smith said she had two goals in mind when she came up with the idea.

One was to let students know what they could get out of being volunteer workers — the work experience (some colleges won't accept students unless they've had practical volunteer experience), let teens know what volunteer work is all about, the opportunity to do something valuable with their time, learn new skills and have practical training, and as well to find volunteers needed for special summer programs.

Anyone who has had second thoughts and would like to register for summer volunteer employment, should call Sharen Smith at 883-2235.

Playground

Registration is underway

Plans are underway in the Town of Vaughan for an exciting summer at the playgrounds.

An enthusiastic and experienced staff has been hired and are ready to go.

An event that is different from any other will be organized by Martha Bell and her dance group.

All-time favorites like the Science Centre and Just-A-Farm have been included in the schedule of events, as well.

The playgrounds are located in four areas; one in Thornhill, Kleinburg, Woodbridge and in Maple.

Each will have a back-up location for those days when it rains, and excellent activities are planned to see that the rainy days are as much fun as the sunny ones.

Registration is already underway, and space is limited. For additional information, please call 851-1151 and ask for Sandy Colborn.
