airport twice and crashes

Arthur Welden of Downsview got the shock of his life Sunday evening, when he was trying to start his airplane at King City Airport. He was having some trouble getting it started, so he opened the throttle wide and then went outside to hand start the plane. The next thing he knew, his pilot-less plane took off. The plane circled the airport twice before coming to earth about 20 feet from where it took off. No one was injured when the plane crashed, but it did cause a few moments of anxiety to some picnickers nearby. Damages to the plane are estimated at $6,500.
