Oak Ridges

Minor Ball

Although there were three rain-outs last week in Oak Ridges Minor Ball regular play, the Squirts, Peepees, Bantams and T-Ballers managed to get in some good action.

On Thursday, Kinsmen Club tied Gormley Well Drillers at 14. Standout for the Kinsmen T-Ballers was Darryl Bingham and Jackie VanHorn played well for Gormley at Oak Ridges Public School.

On the same diamond, Sisman's of Canada rolled over Cadillac Bait (Richvale) 24-8 in a Squirt match-up. Billy Joe DeGeer pitched exceptionally well and Danny Tanburi was strong at the plate for Sisman's.

At Bradstock Park, Stereo Factory trounced Guaranty Trust 19-9. Mike Smith made a strong showing both at the plate and on the mound and the star fielder was Glen Collins.

In the Peepee division, Richmond Hill number five beat Ryman Shoes 11-8 at Lake Wilcox P.S. on Thursday. Damien O'Flaherty pitched well, Michael Field was steady in the outfield and Matt Deering had a couple of nice hits.

Volunteer Bureau

RICHMOND HILL VOLUNTEER BUREAU

The Richmond Hill Volunteer Bureau is a new service, which began in January 1979.

The Bureau identifies community needs, which volunteers can help meet and puts volunteers in touch with these needs.

Volunteer work is open to just about anyone — housewives, senior citizens, students, professionals... those who have two hours a month to give and those who have two days a week to give.

There are many volunteer opportunities in Richmond Hill including typing, driving, fund raising, office work, babysitting and many varied needs.

Volunteer jobs supplement, but do not supplant the jobs of paid staff.

If you would like to volunteer your time and talents, call the Volunteer Bureau and make an appointment to come in and see them.

Their telephone number is 883-2235.

SERVICES TO THE RETARDED

The mentally retarded in southern York Region are well served by both privately and publicly supported facilities for all age groups.

The York Central Association for the Mentally Retarded, established in 1953, sponsors a number of these services.

Father Francis Robinson takes careful aim at his going away cake. He was the honored guest at a recent reception held at Our Lady Queen of The World Church, Richmond Hill on the occasion of his transfer from the parish after 19 years.

Farewell

Father Robinson leaves The Hill...

Father Francis Robinson has left Richmond Hill after serving 19 years as parish priest at Our Lady Queen of the World Church.

He was instrumental in having the church built, and before there was a church for Mass, he said Mass in Our Lady Help of Christian School and weekday Masses were in his home.

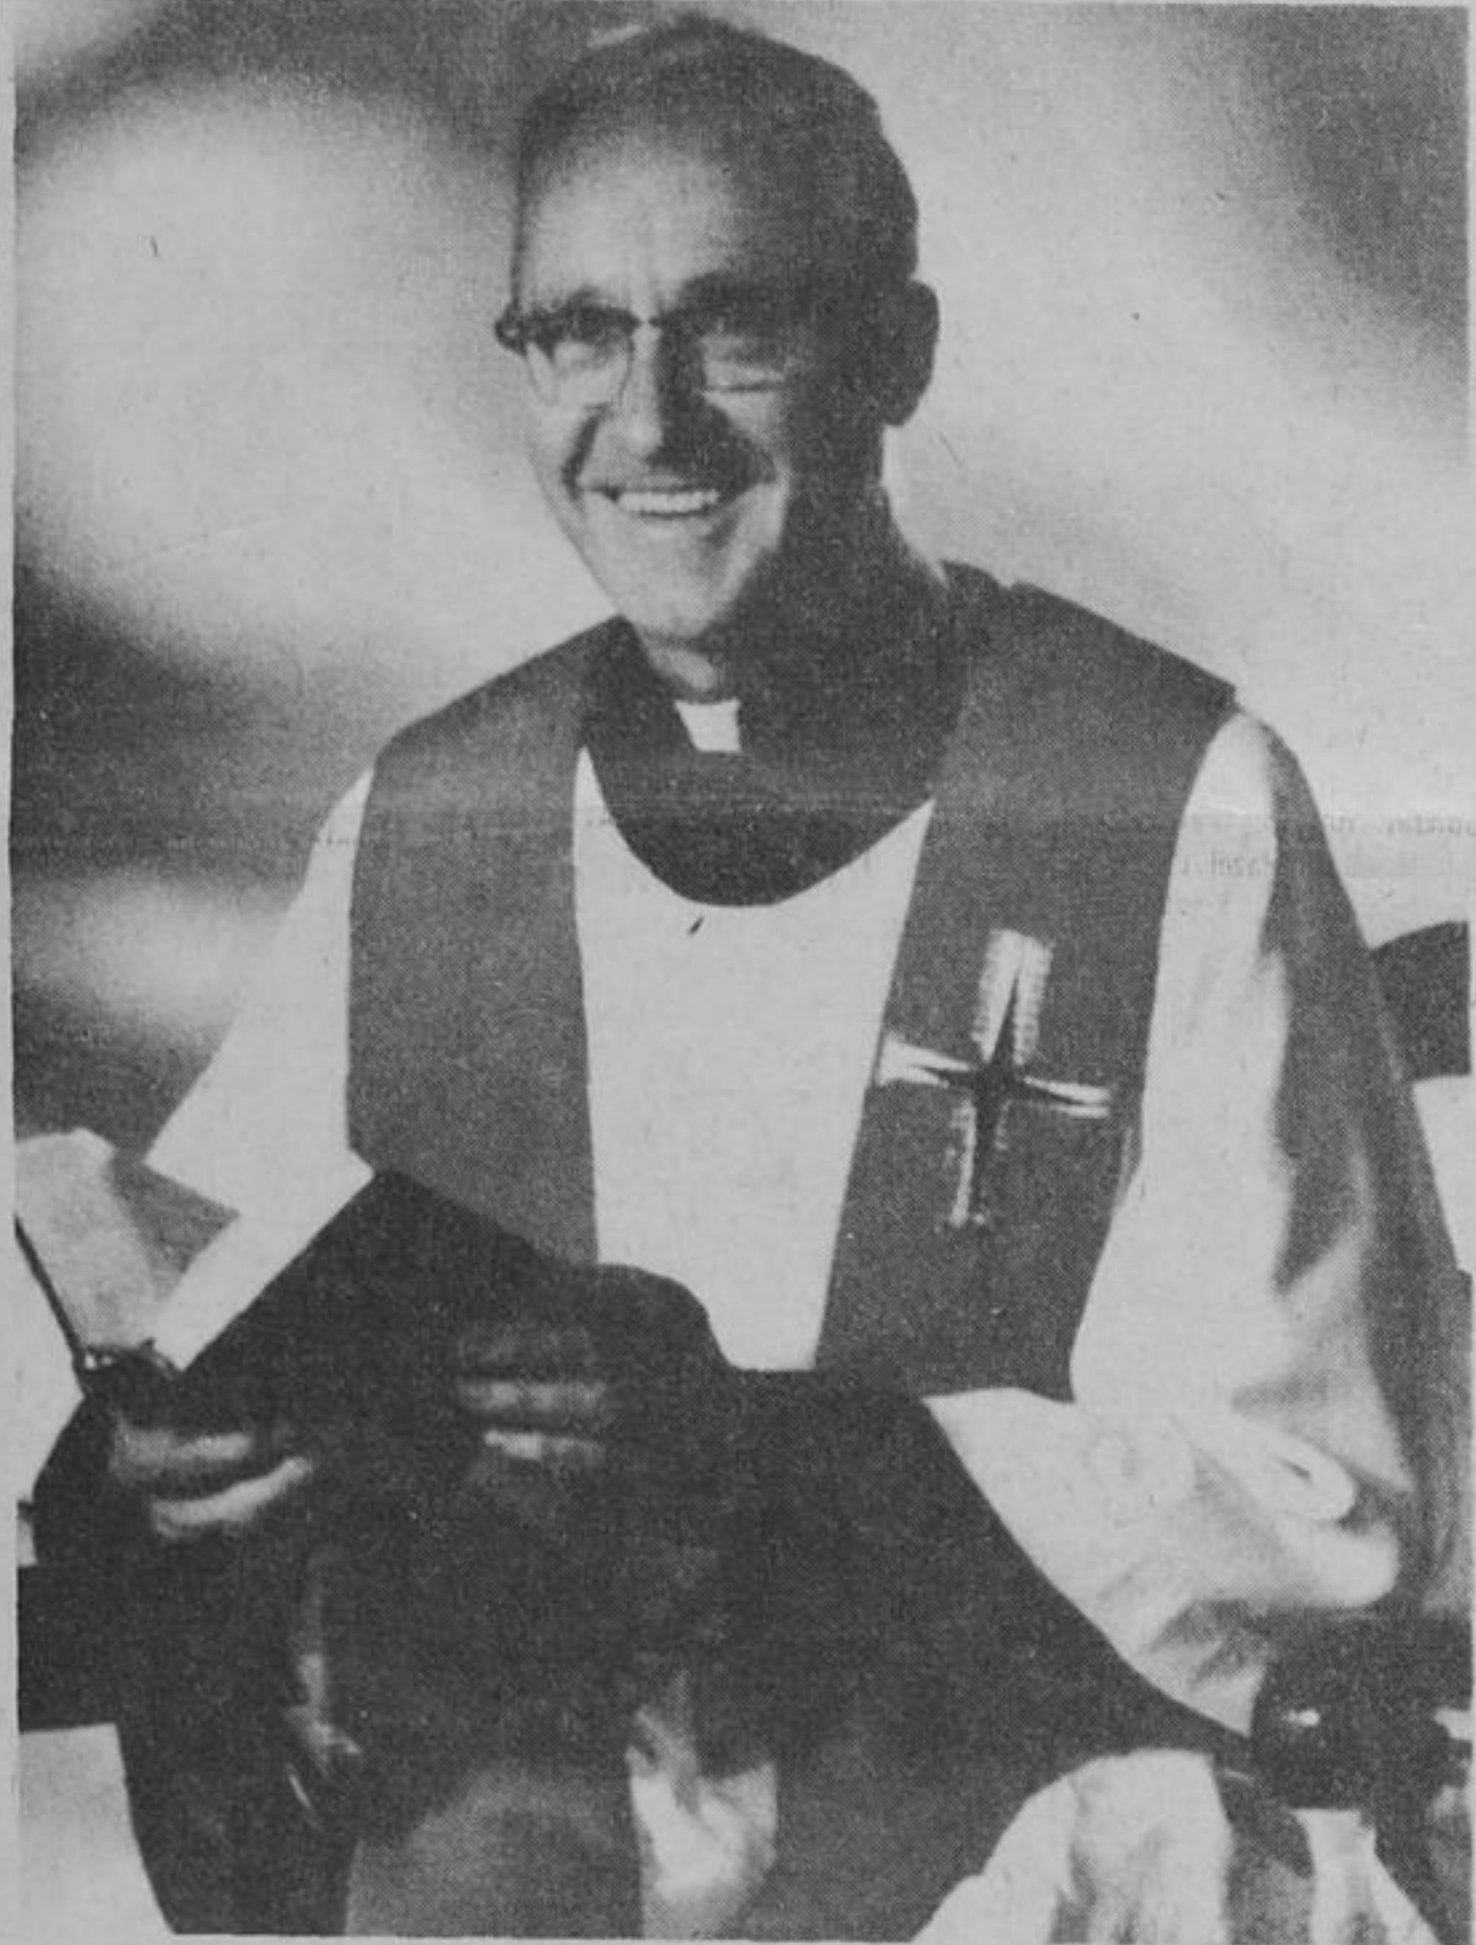

During his 19 years with the parish, Father Robinson saw many changes take place, both in his parish and in the Catholic Church in general.

As a farewell gesture, the parish held a reception for him.

He received an arm chair as a gift from the Catholic Women's League, presented by the president, Margaret McLaughlin, and a money purse from the parish, presented by Logan Forsythe, president of the parish council.

Father Robinson is not going too far from the community. His new parish is St. Edward's in Willowdale.

Father Robinson has turned over his duties at Our Lady Queen of the World to Father Frank Voorwerk.

...and Father Frank arrives

Our Lady Queen of the World parish in Richmond Hill has a new parish priest.

He is Father Frank Voorwerk, but he prefers to be known as Father Frank.

He comes to Richmond Hill from Etobicoke, where he was parish priest at St. Clement's for 12 years.

Father Frank believes in his creature comforts, and he brought his housekeeper, or as he calls her, his Girl Friday, Inez Finley with him.

He says he thinks he will like it in Richmond Hill, but he wishes Bayview Avenue was a bit easier for the children to cross, because he would like all the young people to feel they could drop by the church for a visit anytime.

Father Frank has a dog, which he says "loves children, too".

His hobbies include gardening, carpentry and fishing, and he has been putting his love for carpentry to fixing up his new home. One room at a time is receiving his attention, and he's enjoying what he's doing.

Gamble's file growing with election problems

Caroline Low, of Richmond Hill, said she feels circumstances surrounding the last federal election were "absolutely disgusting" and she has contacted the Commissioner of Elections in Ottawa and York-North MP John Gamble, asking for their attention.

Ms. Low's name did not appear on the voting list, and in spite of five calls she made to the returning officer reporting her situation, she was still unable to vote May 22.

The Liberal contacted John Gamble who said he can do nothing about the "irregularities" of the last election now, but he is gathering a file of the problems of voters in this constituency, to use as the basis for seeking the appointment of a new returning officer.

Election day problems, like Ms. Low's, such as not enough ballots supplied, offices opening late election day, addresses of polling stations changed without notice and phones not answered in the returning office, are filling his file, said Mr. Gamble.

Twenty-two year old, Jo Anne White, the chief returning officer for the riding of York North, was appointed for the election May 22, and is installed in office for life.

Mr. Gamble said he hopes to compile a report to "convince even the most skeptical, the returning officer did not do her job".
