Millie Stewart, a veteran correspondent with The Liberal, started out handling Richmond Hill North; completely initiated the Richmond Hill Central column; and has now taken on the handling of Richmond Hill South.

While the three areas of Richmond

Hill each have their own column on this page — North, Central, and South — it's nice to know they're finally all being compiled by the same person.

So it's easy to get your news into its proper area.

She's available Fridays and Mondays at The Liberal, 884-8177 or 881-3373.

Richmond Hill Recycling is alive and well in Richmond Hill despite the fire last week that wiped out its storage barn. Fred Jamin pictured here showing the truck escaped damage, said the problem now is pirates — someone other than Richmond Hill Recycling representatives picking up papers. This red and white five ton Ford truck with Richmond Hill Recycling in big green letters is the pick up service authorized to collect bundled newspapers on garbage day. Mr. Jamin asks the faithful recyclers to put papers out with their garbage in the morning to avoid night piracy and to be careful not to include glossy magazines or cardboard. The market is asking for a better quality of paper, he said, and it makes the process more complicated to have to separate bundles to retrieve "contaminants". (Liberal Photo by Bruce Hogg)

Local artist, Diane Styrm, will hold a one-woman show at the library from Thursday, October 11 to Saturday, November 3.

She's calling it 'Of Cabbages and Kings' and 'A Painting Summer-Y'.

Featured in the show will be oils and watercolors completed on location this summer, while she was studying with Zoltan Szabo, Jack Reid and Don Fraser.

A percentage of all sales will be given to the library for future projects.

Her work can be seen in advance of the show at the York Fine Art Gallery in Aurora.
