

The Association for Early Childhood Education was at Hillcrest Mall Saturday showing people what they do and how early education can benefit a child. Sandra Osbaldeston is nine years old and lives on

John Dexter Place, Unionville, and was keen to try out some of the home made play dough being handed out to children, who visited the display. (Liberal Photo by Bruce Hogg).

Bayview students start TV series

Don't be misled. BS-TV stands for Bayview Secondary-TV, the latest in an attempt to recruit school spirit and show everyone the ingenuity and ambition of teenagers.

John Horton, Dan Wright, Dave Linderman, Russ Thompson and Mark Woodhead, students at Bayview Secondary School, have set up a series of variety shows to run on Classcomm Cable 10 every two weeks.

At least 30 kids have offered to put on skits, entertain musically or provide technical assistance in the production of a regular one and one-half hour show to be called BS-TV.

The idea came from last year's successful Telethon to raise money for refugee children, said John Horton, a Grade 13 student at Bayview Secondary School.

Many students expressed an interest to carry on at that time said John, and he and his buddies thought it a great way to generate enthusiasm in the school.

It is a completely volunteer project and the first show will be aired this Friday, November 2 at 8 p.m.
