

Operetta Society thrills audience

Talent abounds in Richmond Hill and residents were given the opportunity to see for themselves last Friday night at St. Mary's Anglican Church.

Hilltop Operetta Society, a group made up of solo talent from Richmond Hill and surrounding area, put on a series of operetta solos, duets and choruses under the direction of Norman Baldwin.

The master of ceremonies was

Charles Larke, who introduced the audience to the plot of the operetta from which each number was taken.

Among the selections were The Mikado, The Gondoliers, Porgy and Bess and South Pacific.

Several numbers were accompanied by a small ensemble, Bruce McNeil, Jennifer Loweth, and Michael Shirlaw, and the entire program was accompanied by Connie Jackson on the piano.

There was an able group of men, tenors and baritones who obviously wanted to act as well as sing.

Young voices, like Adele Kozak, Marg Rumney and Louise Dennys, who sang in the trio part, 'Three Little Maids' from The Mikado, showed the audience that a group like Hilltop Operetta is needed in Richmond Hill to give young people experience to work with the semi-professional voices.

Joan Plum conducted for Mr. Baldwin when he was solo singing and did an excellent job.

Monica Vermeulen did a splendid job in her contralto parts.

This particular concert will be repeated this Friday, November 30 and all are invited to support this new group in Richmond Hill.

Plans are already underway for a full scale Gilbert and Sullivan Operetta next April 24, 25, 26 and 27.
