A story is told by the Ailsa Craig Banner concerning a poor sick woman whose suffering had made her a little morbid and in this state made this curious request of a friend:

"When I am dead and my neighbors come to my door with regret and sympathy, do not let any of them in the house, because I have lived here for years, lonely and forlorn and shut in and not one of them has dropped in to cheer and comfort me. If they offer their cars for the funeral refuse them, because they never asked me to take a ride, though they must have known how much an invalid would enjoy getting out. Do not let them lay a flower on my coffin, for for they never gave me a smile bloom in life."

The Collingwood Bulletin, repeating this story, very truly says: Now this woman's neighbors are not especially hard and heartless people. They are just busy people engrossed in their own affairs, even as you and I. And when they hear that the poor invalid across the street is dead, they will be conscious of their not having failed in kindness to her, and they will rush over to her house and try to atone for their neglect by heaping their tributes on her bier. We all do the same thing, and I often think that the most cynical thing in the world is that we have to die to find what our family and friends think of us, and the esteem in which we are held in the community. The words we hungered and thirsted to hear, the love that we broke our hearts for, are only whispered into our ears. —Ex.

Red and White Chain Stores

THE OWNER SERVES—THE BUYER SAVES

Russell, November 3rd, 1931

Dear Customer:—

We are glad to announce that we are now members of the Red and White Chain Stores, and a part of a co-operative system that buys goods for thousands of grocery stores. This capacity buying and low cost of handling will enable us to sell to you at prices which have been impossible in the past, and will be a big saving to our customers.

The Red and White system is sound, and an economic method of handling foodstuffs, and because of its service to the public, it has, during the past ten years, established itself throughout Canada and the United States. Red and White Chain Stores are owned and operated in Canada by Canadians with Canadian capital and in your own community by men with whom you have done business for years, and who are now adding the extra features which make Red and White so attractive.

In order to give the best service possible to our customers, we find that we must do away with the old Credit System, believing it to be altogether too expensive for our customers and detrimental to ourselves.

The present economic situation of our country is enough to convince us that people should make their money go as far as possible and by paying cash you will receive a big reduction in prices in all lines that we carry, and in order to carry out what we believe will sell for Cash only on and after November 16th, 1931.

We would request that all open accounts be settled in a satisfactory manner on or before December 15th, 1931.

Our store is newly decorated, our goods are fresh, and we will be glad to see all old customers and welcome the new ones, assuring all that their welfare will be our interest.

We hope you will like our new system, appreciating the fact that it is Yours for Better Service.
