

DEATH ON THE DIAMOND

BY CORTLAND FITZSIMMONS

SYNOPSIS

Since Pop Clark disbanded his famous Blue Fire-eaters ten years ago he has been vainly trying to win the United League pennant with his Royal Blues. Sport writers give them little chance.

"And got an nice little scoop for your trouble. Well, you've had enough for one day; you'd better scram. Kelly's mouth flattened out into a straight line and his eyes lost all semblance of mildness.

"But gee! Inspector!" Terry started.

"Yeah! I know. You guys are never satisfied, are you?"

"But it's great news and naturally I'd like to be on the inside if I could."

CHAPTER VII

Kelly started to speak and then stopped. Terry watched his hopefully. "You were in the press box all through the game?" Kelly asked.

"Have you sent your stuff in to the paper?"

"I called them up and gave them the scoop."

"No, I mean the play by play account of the game."

"All but the last part, and I have that here in my pocket." Terry pulled out some sheets of paper.

"Well, I guess I'll let you stick around. I may need you to check with me as I go along."

"Thanks, Inspector."

"Where do you get that Inspector stuff? I'm just Bill Kelly of the Homicide Squad. You stay here, see, but don't give anything to your paper without my okay."

Kelly turned to the doctor. "You say he's been shot?"

"Yes, through the heart."

"Now, who did it and how?" Kelly mused aloud.

"The Doc thinks it was done with a rifle," Terry offered.

"Why?" Kelly swung toward the doctor.

"As I explained to this young man, this was an accurate shot and you couldn't trust a revolver so great a distance."

"Where do you get this distance stuff?" Kelly demanded.

"Well," the doctor began, "it is possible, but not likely, that a man on the field fired the shot. If the shot was not fired from the field then it came from the stands or outside somewhere. See what I mean? You can't command accuracy at too great a distance with a revolver."

"That's a good point," Kelly said, "only I don't like it. If that bozo was shot with a rifle, it could have been done from most anywhere, up on the bluffs, from some house-top, from the top of the stands."

"Or even from the elevated station," Terry suggested.

Two policemen hurried in. "Hello, Kelly, what are you doing here?"

Just wandered over to see what the excitement was all about," Kelly answered. "And when I saw it was hot stuff, I called centre street to see if I could have the case. I'm on."

"What's up?" the second policeman asked.

"Looks like murder."

Pop Clark and Walsh, the Philadelphia manager, came in just as Kelly said "murder."

"It can't be murder," Pop said.

"It is just the same," Kelly replied, "unless the Doc here is off his base."

"Of course, some one would have to murder my best player just when I was winning a game!" Walsh was as mad as a wet hen.

"It's impossible!" Pop muttered, trying to grasp the implications of both Kelly and Walsh.

"I lost the game, didn't I?" Walsh snapped. "Lost it when I had it in the bag, too. Horan touched out a dead man and the verdict will have to stand. How could my men play ball after what happened?"

"Then the Blues won?" Terry asked.

"Don't be funny, young fellow! Why wouldn't they win?"

The tramp of feet and the noise of men bustling about the locker-room could be heard plainly in the silence which followed Walsh's blithering speech.

Kelly turned to Pop Clark. "I want you to hold all the men, both teams, until I can have a chance to talk to them. You boys see to that, will you?" he instructed the policemen, "and," he added as an afterthought, "frisk all of them, both teams."

The men gone, he continued: "I'll get the medical examiner up here to verify the examination on this doctor. Is there some place we can go away from this?" he asked Pop.

"My rooms," Pop suggested.

They walked down the hall and when they were seated, Kelly said to Terry, "take notes for me, will you, kid? They may come in handy."

To End a Meal Happily

Never mind how uninteresting the first course of dinner has been, there are always days when the housewife has to use up left-overs, but if you serve a Coconut Crested Angel Food Cake for dessert, the first course will be forgotten and forgiven and dinner pronounced a success!

This toothsome-looking cake is popular with everyone and served with coffee, is perfect. The browned premium shred coconut just gives the right piquancy to the Angel Cake and is very decorative.

Coconut Crested Angel Food Cake

- 1 cup sifted cake flour.
- 1 cup egg whites.
- 1/4 teaspoon salt.
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar.
- 1 1/4 cups sifted granulated sugar.
- 3/4 teaspoon vanilla.
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract.
- 1/2 cup coconut, premium shred.

Sift flour once, measure, and sift four more times. Beat egg whites and salt with flat wire whisk. When foamy, add cream of tartar, and continue beating until eggs are stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold in sugar carefully, two tablespoons at a time, until all is used. Fold in flavoring. Then sift small amount of flour over mixture and fold in carefully; continue until all is used. Pour batter into ungreased angel food pan. Sprinkle with coconut. Bake in slow oven at least one hour. Begin at 275 degrees F., and after 30 minutes increase heat slightly (325 D.), and bake 30 minutes. Invert pan one hour.

This Week's Winner

- White Cake With Date Filling:—
- 1 cup white sugar.
- 2 tablespoons butter.
- 1 egg.
- 2 cups flour, sifted 3 times with 2 teaspoons baking powder (Magic Powder preferred).
- 1 cup sweet milk.
- Mix egg, sugar, softened butter

Then he turned to Walsh: "What do you know about Whitper?"

"Not a great deal. You probably know more about him than I do if you are a fan. He's been with us for three years now and was our best man. We got him in a trade from the Detroit Bears."

"Is he married?"

"Not that I know of."

"Then that eliminates a jealous wife from the picture. . . . Was he well liked on the team?" was the next question.

"No. He was too arrogant most of the time. I don't think any of the boys actually disliked him but they left him pretty much to himself. He didn't pal with any one in particular."

"What did he do with his time?"

"He was great on the social stuff. He had good connections and knew people in most of the cities. He was quite a hand with the ladies."

"That opens up quite a line for investigation. Did he ever have any trouble over women?"

"None that I know about except—Walsh stopped and glanced at Pop.

"Except what?" Kelly demanded.

"He means my daughter," Pop said.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A more bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a colonel but have no Colonel or merrymen in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. Etc.

thoroughly, then add milk and flour alternately and beat. Bake in moderate oven in 2 well-greased layer cake tins.

- Date Filling:—
- 1 cup chopped dates.
- 1 cup white sugar.

Water to moisten; cook to a thick paste and spread between layers.

- Icing:—
- Beat one banana to a pulp; add 1 cup icing sugar and good-sized piece of butter or a little cream, and ice top and sides of cake.—Mrs. L. M. Allen, Jarvis, Ont.

Trade In Far East Held Important

Sir Herbert Marler Says Japanese Business is Vital

MONTREAL — Canadians should be giving greater consideration to their trade interests in the Far East—and it would be to their own benefit, Sir Herbert Marler, former Canadian Minister to Japan and newly-appointed Minister to Washington, believes.

Japan's enormous industrial expansion had particular meaning to Canada which has a large export trade to the Far East, Sir Herbert said, pointing out Canadian raw materials and semi-finished goods supplied base for finished Japanese products.

Sir Herbert stated Canadian trade with Japan had been badly balanced in 1929, but "now we have far more diversified and larger exports to that country than ever."

The idea that Japan was so far east it could have only little effect on Canadian business conditions was erroneous, the minister said. He explained: "Japanese buy asbestos and aluminum from Quebec; nickel from Ontario; wheat from the Prairies, and lumber from British Columbia.

"We are even affected by a famine in China or a great depreciation of currency there. For then the Japanese cannot sell the manufactured goods in China and cannot buy from us," he concluded.

Let Me Have Men About Me That Are Fat—In Japan

TOKIO.—The majority of pupils at a "school for brides" declared themselves in favor of stout men as husbands.

And only a minority were in favor of love matches, most of them declaring that they preferred to have the marriage arranged through a broker, and did not care to associate with their husbands before they were married to them.

Most of the girls would prefer to make their home with the husband's parents and to live in town instead of the country.

All of them wanted their husbands to take them to the cinema (or concerts or plays)—70 per cent. saying they must go at least three times a month and the rest wanted to go four times or more.

Half of the girls said they would like three children, the rest wanted anything from four to 13! Only one girl, however, wanted 18.

Forty per cent. of the girls stipulated a minimum income of 100 yen ($25) a month—the others were prepared to get along with less so long as the income carried a husband with it.

Tweedsmuir Tells Of Exam Failures

TORONTO — Lord Tweedsmuir disclaimed any academic qualification for the honorary degree of doctor of divinity, when it was conferred upon him at Victoria University's centennial convocation. In fact, he admitted that he had had something less than average success with the one examination in divinity which he had to write while at Oxford. At that time, an elementary examination was obligatory on all undergraduates. "I regret to say that on three separate occasions I failed," he confessed. "I didn't believe any preparation was necessary and that the son of a Scotch manse could answer any question an English don could ask."

Licenses were needed by Russians who wished to wear beards in the reign of Peter the Great, who put a heavy tax on the "face fungus". His aim was to make his people shave in European style.

A Wrap Around Slip For Extra Long Wear

No sales talk or analysis is necessary to convince you that this slip is action built, shadow proof, and styled for extra long wear.

Notice how the skirt double in back is left open at the sides from the waist down. That means less wear and tear and you won't sit out the back or split seams. The low cut back and narrow straps make it ideal for your street frock and evening gown. A cooler, easier to don, wrap-around just doesn't exist!

What's more, it is so easy to make, requiring a minimum of cutting and stitching. You can't have too many of these slips. Just send for Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1946-B. It is available for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40, 42 and 44. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 (34) requires 2 3/4 yards of 39-inch material.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS Write your name and address, and number of pattern wanted. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred); wrap it carefully and address your order to Barbara Bell, Room 421, 73 Adelaide W., Toronto.

Use of "Stop" Signs

Writes the Toronto Telegram. — Ontario motorists are well served by the system of road signs indicating the approach to curves, intersections and through thoroughfares. These signs are simple, distinct and generally of good visibility. Considerable success has also attended the efforts of the Highway Department to subordinate merely advertising signs so that they do not interfere with the direction signs.

If You Have a Child ASK YOUR DOCTOR THIS

Ask Him Before Giving Your Child an Unknown Remedy

Practically any doctor you ask will warn: "Don't give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first."

When it comes to the widely used children's remedy—"milk of magnesia," the standard of the world is established. For over half a century many doctors have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia." Safe for children. No other is "quite like it."

Keep this in mind, and say "PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" when you buy. Now also in tablet form. Get the form you prefer. But see that what you get is labeled "Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.
