THE INN KEEPER MAKES EXCUSES

"Oh, if only I had known!"
Said the keeper of the inn.
"But no hint to me was shown,
And I didn't let them in.

"Yes, a star gleamed overhead,
But I couldn't read the skies,
And I'd given every bed
To the very rich and wise.

"And she was so poorly clad,
And he hadn't much to say!
But no room for them I had,
So I ordered them away.

"She seemed tired, and it was late
And they begged so hard,
That I
Feeling sorry for her state,
In the stable let them lie.

"Had I turned some rich man out
Just to make a place for them,
'Twould have killed beyond a doubt,
All my trade in Bethlehem.

"Then there came the wise men three
To the stable, with the morn,
Who announced they'd come to see
The great King who had been born.

"And they brought Him gifts of myrrh,
Costly frankincense and gold,
And a great light shone on her
In the stable, bleak and cold.

"All my patrons now are dead
And forgotten; but today,
All the world to peace is led
By the ones I sent away.

"It was my unlucky fate
To be born that Inn to own,
Against Christ I shut my gate
Oh, if only I had known!"

The depression resulting from the World War so far has cost upwards of 250 billion dollars, which is far beyond the cost of the war itself.

THE NEW PREACHER

Warton has a poet and like Bobby Burns he works the soil. When Rev. W. M. Lee called on this poet the old man was delighted and in the next issue of the Warton Echo the following verses appeared:

One day this new and Godly man
Upon us came a-calling,
He found us all "En dishable"
Which was a trifle galling.

There was dirt upon our shoes
And dirt our hands did harlen;
The cause of all this dirty staff
Was working in the garden.

A fine upstanding man was he
About six foot in height,
A kindly smile and merry eye
And near two hundred weight.

He took my grimy paw in his
And did not bat an eye.
It kind of warmed our heart a bit
To find he's not dirt shy.

We talked of this and spoke of that
But nothing much to mention;
Yet through it all he seemed to me
A man of fine intention.

So did we meet—so did we part,
So may we meet again,
In true and lasting friendship charm
Devoid in gossip's stain.

And thus, Dear Lord, we humbly pray
Our "breacher man" will be
A friend to rich and poor alike,
A friend to you and me.

In 1815 at the battle of Waterloo, a British rocket brigade caused havoc among the French with thirty-inch-long incendiary rockets that rushed fire as they struck.

Before they thought of boiling them in water, the ancient Egyptians used to roast their eggs in hot beds of coals.

If human beings had the capacity for food of a caterpillar they would eat 400 pounds of food a day.

claim that it is absolutely germ-free. In addition, it is claimed that this new "thread" called Brocafil, is much stronger than catgut, and can be made into lengths of as much as a mile, as compared with two or three yards maximum for catgut. Brocafil has already proved a great success in Holland, where it has been used for even the most dangerous gastric operations.

A magician was performing a card trick in which he placed the ace of diamonds so that it was the 38th card from the top of the deck. Then he discarded some cards from the top of the deck, dealt the remainder into even piles so that the ace of diamonds was top of the 5th pile.

How many piles did he divide the cards into and how many cards did he remove from the top of the deck. Answer next week.

Answer to last week's puzzle.
No. 1—The Milkman Puzzle.
He filled up the five gallon can, filled the three gallon can from the five and put the three gallons back into the eight gallon can, then emptied from the 5-gal. can, which now contained two gallons, into the 3-gal. can, then filled up the 5-gal. can from the 8-gal. can, then filled up the 3-gal. can from the 5, thus making 4 gallons in the 5-gal. can, 1 in the 8 and 3 in the 3.

No. 2—The Watchman Puzzle.
He fired the Night Watchman because he slept while on duty.

MORE EGG MONEY

A healthy flock of poultry is a laying, paying flock. Insure the health of your birds by feeding Watkins Mineralized Poultry Tonic. You will get more eggs and have less trouble with sickness. This will both make and save money for you. Increased egg production alone will be enough to pay for the Tonic.

Wait for my call and see the bargains I have for you.

GERM FREE "CATGUT" MAKES OPERATIONS SAFER

When a major operation is performed, the wound has to be sewn up, and until now, catgut has normally been used. This "thread" is made from the intestines of sheep and not from the cat as is sometimes imagined.

It is essential that a substance of animal origin should be used, because when internal wounds are stitched up, the "thread" must be slowly absorbed into the flesh. If ordinary thread or horsehair were used, dangerous inflammation would set up.

But catgut also has its danger because, being made from the intestines of sheep, it often harbours germs.

Called "Brocafil"
Several cases have recently occurred where germs in catgut have come to life after an operation, causing the patients concerned to become desperately ill. This has brought about the introduction of a new gut made from the tendons of horses and cows, and the makers

SAYS YOUNG ARE SOFT

Bluenose sailormen, descendants of these iron men who sailed wooden ships 50 years ago, are a thing of the past, in the opinion of Captain Angus Walters, skipper of the Lunenburg banker Bluenose.

"The pleasure-loving generation of to-day are a bunch of softies," commented the man who took command of the Bluenose when launched in 1921, and has helped her keep her title of queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleet ever since.

Future of the fishing industry in Nova Scotia was threatened by a shortage of young men willing to dare the hardships and dangers of bank fishing, the Bluenose skipper declared in an interview. He did not know if this shortage was caused by prospect of poor returns from fishing or whether it was "just the effects of our pleasure-seeking age."

Automobile, radios, dance music and other distractions lured the young men away from the sea, he said, adding that the time was not far distant when Lunenburg's famous fleet would put out to sea manned by alien crews. Already there was a fair sized sprinkling of sailors from Newfoundland and other countries manning the barkers. The veteran skipper recalled the days when the Lunenburg fleet numbered "more than 60 sail," and said that number had been decreased to about 30 in the last few years. He predicted that unless progressive changes took place, the number would continue to decrease.

It's so much easier to shop by TELEPHONE..

On wet days and snowy days, on days when there is so much housework to be done, on days when you aren't feeling up to scratch yourself or when one of the youngsters is ailing, it's great to be able to shop by telephone. And on fine days too, and when everything else is going right, it saves you an endless amount of tiresome traipsing around. Make the telephone your market basket.
