Last year we asked: Who will be the first to see our red-breasted harbinger of Spring and we received quite a few answers to our question. And again we ask—Who will see the just Robin this season?

Flood Waters Cause Damage In District

The summer weather of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, combined with a heavy rainfall Wednesday night are responsible for flood conditions in Russell village and other centres along the Castor and Nation rivers.

Ice started moving in the Castor River at Russell on Tuesday, jamming at the bridge and causing inundation of lands bordering the river. Several basements were under water and furnace fires extinguished. Fortunately the jam broke up later in the day, allowing the water to recede.

On Wednesday night water in the Castor River again started to rise and by midnight water was flowing through the fire hall and started to seep into the building at the New York Central pumping station. Basements of homes along the river were flooded.

Reports reaching here Wednesday night from Embrun indicated that the Castor River in that village rose five to seven feet early in the evening and by midnight had increased another two feet.

An ice jam above the N.Y.C. railroad bridge at Embrun was given as the cause for the sudden rise in the level of the river. Water is flowing over the road in the village to a depth of one foot.

The cooler weather of today—Thursday—is expected to ease the situation.

Local and Personal

Books in connection with the travelling library of the Russell Women's Institute are now available and are temporary at the home of Mrs. L. A. MacEwen until Mrs. H. Snell is free to take over the work of librarian.

Spring has definitely arrived—and a number of owners of sugar bush lands have started syrup-making. Water rose so high in the Castor that the ice has broken up above the dam while below the river is clear.

CURLING NEWS

Five days since the first day of Spring and curling is now a thing of a season past.

Still you hear of the good shots so and so made and the hard luck so and so had.

The date of the men's annual meeting has been set for March 28th and it is expected that the Women's Curling Club will furnish the eats.

The Ladies' Curling Club will hold their annual meeting on Wednesday, March 30th, at 8.30 p.m. in the club room.

There will be plenty to hash at the Men's Annual—the digging of a well—the repairing of the irons and many other matters of business connected with curling.

And so we conclude this column for the week.

.COMING EVENTS.

The Women's Institute supper in the United Church Hall at 6.30 p.m. on April 7th. Guest speaker, Her Excellency Lady Tweedsmuir. Only about 35 tickets are available to non-members. Those wishing tickets kindly see Mrs. Cecil McKendry or Miss Lowrie at once. Ticket-holders must be at hall at 6.15 sharp to receive Her Excellency.
